TAX REVISION CERTAIN FOR COMING YEAR

Country Can Be Assured of Reduction for 1927,
Lawrence Believes

WILL REVISE 'OLD BILL'
Corporation Taxes to Be Reduced to Original 12 1/2
Per Cent Basis

BULLETIN
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The Democratic fight to attach a tax reduction proposal to the $134,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill finally failed Friday when the senate passed the appropriation bill without any amendment.

The tax question was raised in a new form, however, when Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi introduced a resolution to declare it to be the sense of the senate that permanent tax legislation should be passed at this session. The Mississippi senator asked for immediate consideration, but objection was made by Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, and the resolution went over for a day under the rules.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The reduction of tax credit on incomes for the year 1926 having been definitely abandoned, the country can be assured that on incomes earned during the calendar year 1927 a reduction is virtually certain to be made. In other words, the country can be assured that the income tax will be reduced for the year 1927.

The corporation taxes are certain to be reduced to the original 12 1/2 per cent basis. And the graduated scale of surtaxes on incomes below $100,000 are also sure to experience a downward revision. Some tax reduction is likely for every bracket of the surtaxes, though in the higher brackets the percentage of change will be relatively small.

CONGRESS SENTIMENT
This is a summing up of sentiment in congress at the moment, and these changes would have materialized if the preliminary situation had permitted tax revision at this session of congress. The president's plea for a tax credit was shelved largely because the Democrats wanted to revise the whole tax bill, though to be sure, many of the Republican leaders were unwilling to allow the tax question to interfere with the legislative program, believing that everything would be delayed and an extra session forced. Then there was the thought that a substantial tax reduction could be made in the session beginning in December, 1927 and ending in the spring of 1928, which would be just before the presidential and congressional campaigns.

Tax reduction has always gone hand-in-hand with a prosperous condition of the country; in fact some economists have thought tax reduction stimulated business by releasing larger sums which would otherwise have been paid to the government. Thus it is estimated that the amount of the next cut will run from $350,000,000 to $400,000,000. Another factor is the confidence in the business situation which tax reduction usually implies, for the treasury has always indicated that if the business outlook were cloudy a tax reduction would be unwise.

MELLON'S STAND
Secretary Mellon has from the start hoped that a surtax down to 15 per cent would be more productive than any rate which the treasury has been compelled to impose since the war. Every time the rates have been revised the receipts have been materially increased. There is not the same opposition in congress as there was to low rates on big incomes because it has been apparent that methods of avoidance especially in the purchase of tax-exempt securities can be practiced and thus deprive the government out of needed revenue which otherwise must be made up by keeping the small taxpayers rates high. The truth is the material reductions that have been made on incomes below $20,000 have been in large part due to the fact that the government by lower surtax rates has been able to count on a heavier revenue from persons of large income.

IMMIGRATION LAW MAY BAR YOUTHFUL CHANNEL CONQUEROR

Los Angeles—(AP)—The unwelcome spectre of immigration rulings Friday thrust itself between George Young, youthful winner of the $25,000 Catalina channel prize swim, and his fat vaudeville contracts and prospects for movie fame.

The 17-year-old boy and his companion, Bill Hastings, faced the possibility that they will be deported because they failed to comply with immigration regulations when they entered this country at Detroit on their way to California.

If the pair cannot produce properly vouched permits, enter the United States, Young, at least, and perhaps Hastings, may be forced to return to their home in Toronto, Ont. They then may re-enter the United States and return to Los Angeles and Hollywood where the swimmer has lucrative stage engagements and is dicker for a film contract. Hastings already has entered upon a movie career.

M'ADOO SEES ANARCHY IN WETS' FIGHT

Says Campaign Against Prohibition Is Used to Corrupt Politics

Toledo, O.—(AP)—Using the campaign against prohibition as a smoke screen, "corrupt municipal politics is making a concerted and a nation-wide drive" to control national politics, William Gibbs McAdoo Friday told the Ohio State Bar association, here.

He declared the United States, in continued flouting of prohibition laws, is approaching "the slippery path to anarchy." The country's problem, he said, is to "resist the debasement of its civilization at the hands of machine politicians, whether they come in the guise of Republicans or Democrats."

Two "great municipal bosses," he asserted, tried to gain control of the United States senate at the November elections, "making their drive primarily as champions of the liquor traffic and every evil force connected therewith."

BACKS DRY LAW
In an address which consisted of a structure of arguments for prohibition and against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the former candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination asserted the question of law and order is one of the gravest confronting the nation and that the root of lawlessness and disorder is the attitude of those who take

CONTINUE TO HUNT HEAD OF SLAIN WOMAN

Confessed Murderer Leads Officers to Graves in Wood Near Plattville

Plattville—(AP)—Riters woods Friday gave up the dismembered body of Mrs. Hattie Hules Coffey, as another link in the state's chain of evidence through which it hopes to send her bigamist husband and self-confessed slayer to state's prison for life.

With William N. Coffey, Madison land salesman and confessed slayer of his bride of four weeks as their guide, officers recovered the remains Friday morning from the dense grove five miles south of Plattville.

Guarded closely by Sheriff Lyall Wright of Mauston, officials and newspapermen, Coffey showed no emotion as he led the party from one snow-encrusted mound to another, and saw them dig into the frozen earth and extract portions of the body of the woman he has confessed killing last Oct. 9 in Grant co.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT
The proceedings were watched by a large crowd estimated at 1,000 persons who began gathering at dawn Friday when word spread that the gruesome remains of the woman Coffey confessed slaying, dismembering and burying, would be recovered.

Coming as a climax to a week of investigation of the many versions of his romance with the 53-year-old La Crosse widow, whom he married despite a wife and three children in Madison, the recovery of the body confirmed his confession of Wednesday and established the corpus delicti—the body of the crime. Until Friday, the state was confronted with attempting that a crime had been committed.

Six additional pieces of the body were recovered during the morning search of the woods which is on one of the highest ridges of southwestern Wisconsin. In the middle is a ravine in which part of the torso was found Thursday night by searching farmers.

The six pieces were found in one hole. Part of a thigh was found in a wood-chuck hole by farmers car-

Call Charlotte Mills To Testify In Browning Suit

SUMMONED!

New York—(AP)—Charlotte Mills, 20-year-old daughter of the slain choir singer in the Hall-Mills murder case at Somerville, N. J., Friday was added to the Edward W. Browning separation suit case, when attorneys for Browning announced that she had been subpoenaed to appear Monday in White Plains, N. Y.

Just what testimony Miss Mills is to give to help bolster the wealthy New York realtor's case against his young wife, was not vouchsafed by Francis Dale, Browning's attorney.

Browning hopes to have 12 former "boy friends" of the former Frances "Peaches" Heenan testify against her when his suit for separation opens at White Plains Monday. His counsel says that the "boy friends" are among 100 witnesses who are ready to support Browning. While his legal battery was preparing a counter-bombardment to Peaches' charges, Browning discussed the case as he saw it.

He reiterated his denial of his wife's charges of cruelty; called himself a victim of "too much mother-in-law"; pressed determination to keep his 10-year-old adopted daughter, Dorothy Sunshine, out of the litigation, and declared a reconciliation with his wife to be impossible.

"Persecution has killed my love for her," he said. "There will positively be no reconciliation. I don't see how I could possibly be expected to forgive Peaches for what she has done to me."

Browning ridiculed testimony of Mrs. Heenan that he had asked her to live with them. "Did you ever hear of a sane man who invited his mother-in-law to stick around day and night?" he asked.

MARY GARDEN IS AT HER BEST IN 'JUDITH', OPERA CRITICS SAY
Chicago—(AP)—Mary Garden has found another great role in the part of "Judith," Chicago critics said after the American premiere of the opera by the French-Swiss musical revolutionist, Arthur Honegger.

The work, presented Thursday night by the Chicago Civic Opera company is based on the ancient Jewish tale from the Apocryphal book of Judith with music described "a point beyond anything the modern composer has attempted."

"Miss Garden acted the role with superb authority and sang with more vocal eloquence than she has displayed this season," said Glenn Dillard Gunn in the Herald and Examiner.

Edward Moore in the Tribune, likewise found the part gave Miss Garden an opportunity for some of her best acting, "for almost the first time this season."

LETTER HINTS AT EFFORT TO MULCT STATE

Torkelson Charges Private Interests Seek Control of Highways

Madison—(AP)—John T. Donaghey has definitely "passed out of the picture" in connection with the highway controversy, will not talk on the subject at present, and probably will not issue a statement on his discharge from the highway body's chief engineership.

He refused last night to participate in the program of the state road school, saying that he would not follow the schedule, which called for him to speak on the five-year highway building and maintenance program.

"I have passed out of the picture entirely," Mr. Donaghey said, "and have absolutely nothing to say about the election of another chief engineer or about charges that the vote of the commission in my case was directed or that any one class is gaining control of the highway department."

CAUSES SENSATION
The charge by M. W. Torkelson, veteran secretary of the commission that vitrolithic paving interests and culvert manufacturing monopolies were gaining control of the commission with the request for Mr. Donaghey's resignation, caused a sensation in the state house, Torkelson's resignation from the commission and the previous Donaghey dismissal being the main subject of conversation in the legislative halls and in all the state offices.

M. Torkelson's charges follow in part: "I am resigning my position as secretary of the state highway commission, thus severing a connection of nineteen years of highway work in Wisconsin."

"There are times when a man must choose between his job and his mark. This is the choice I have made."

"Whereas I have been told that the River Bridge and Culvert Co. is appointed to the highway commission, and the Consulting Engineer of Wisconsin Vitrolithic, Incorporated, is put in the position of state highway engineer, it is impossible for me to stay and preserve my self respect."

"I have been told that if I will not talk and give nothing to the news-

"CORNER" RAILROAD STOCK ON MARKET

Huge Losses Sustained by "Bear" Traders in Wheeling and Lake Erie

New York—(AP)—Huge losses, which may run into the millions of dollars, have been sustained by "bear" traders on the New York exchange in what to all outward appearances Friday was a "corner" in the common and preferred stocks of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad.

A sensational jump 11 1/2 points to 65 1/2, a new high record, and 38 points above the low price of the year, took place Friday morning in the common stock, the top price being a cash transaction. The preferred moved up 3 points to 63. Ordinarily, the "spread" between the issue is about 20 points in favor of the preferred.

Both common and preferred stocks have been under steady accumulation for the past few weeks for reasons not disclosed, believed to be in connection with consolidation plans. The identity of the purchasers is not known.

27 STATIONS BROADCAST
"IL TROVATORE" TONIGHT

Chicago—(AP)—Twenty-seven radio stations will be linked Friday night for the broadcasting of another performance by the Chicago Civic Opera company from the stage of the Auditorium theatre—the last act of the famous "Prison Scene" from Il Trovatore.

The same elaborate equipment employed last Friday for nation-wide radio-cast of "Faust" will be used Friday night—15 microphones leading to a mixing panel backstage, through it to toll boards and thence to thousands of miles of telephone wires which will carry the Verdi music to the 27 stations. Cyrena Van Gordon, Claudio Muzio and Richard Bonelli, will sing the principal roles.

WAUSAU PUCKSTERS BEAT RHINELANDER

Wausau plays Marquette university Friday night; Marquette-St. Thomas play Saturday afternoon and the Minnesota university team meets the winner Saturday night.

WE'LL KEEP AN EYE ON ROAD CONTRACTORS GOVERNOR PROMISES

Madison—(AP)—Things pertinent to the controversy over the discharge of state highway engineer John T. Donaghey, were said by Governor Zimmerman, State Treasurer Levitan and Mr. Donaghey's successor F. J. Kuchling at the annual road school banquet here Thursday night.

The governor said: "I want you engineers to go back to your work satisfied that you need have no fear that there will be favoritism shown in the highway department work. There will be no favors shown to any company or individual no matter whether they be dealing in equipment, some patented process, or material. Go back to your work assured that we will be on the job here for better highways and work your job of building good roads with the same verve you have previously shown."

The state treasurer put in a good word for his "good friend, Mr. Donaghey," saying that he had followed the state highway engineer through several years and that he regretted to see him go from the state's employment.

ADVANTAGE OF RIVER CANAL IS OUTLINED

Waterway to Atlantic Would Cut Wheat Production Cost 6 1/2 Cents

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Economic advantages over alternative routes of a Great Lakes-to-Atlantic waterway, via the St. Lawrence river, were outlined in a lengthy report submitted to the commerce department Friday by two of its experts.

The report, prepared by E. S. Gregg and A. Lane Clicher, said the proposed St. Lawrence ship canal would develop at the outlet between 19,000,000 and 24,000,000 long tons of traffic annually, and would enable the mid-western farmer to get wheat from Chicago or Duluth to Liverpool where the international price is made, at a cost at least 6 1/2 cents per bushel lower than he now pays.

WOULD ADMIT VESSELS
The experts also found that a 27-foot channel into the Great Lakes would admit 81 per cent of the deadweight tonnage of ocean vessels now coming to the United States and concluded that the St. Lawrence channel would develop a much greater amount of traffic than the other projects, which contemplate a connection with the Hudson river and Lake Ontario, either with or without an American canal between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The actual cost of transporting a ton of freight to Liverpool from Lake Erie, via the St. Lawrence, would be $1.81, the report estimated, while it would be $2.49 if the canal charge from Lake Ontario to the Hudson was included; and $3.81 if an all American route was followed.

SENATE GROUP FAILS TO VOTE ON POLICY

Democratic Committeemen Absent Themselves to Prevent Quorum Vote

Washington D. C.—(AP)—A move in the house foreign affairs committee Friday to report the Fairchild resolution, endorsing the administration's Nicaraguan-Mexican policy, was blocked by Democrats absenting themselves from the committee room to prevent the presence of a quorum.

After a stormy session, during Representative Lathrop of Maryland, the ranking Democrat, stamped out of the room in protest against what he said was "a gag move" by Republicans, the committee voted 5 to 1 to report the resolution. There are 21 members of the committee and 11 are needed for a quorum.

STORM BREAKS AS TORKELSON HURLS CHARGE

Senate and Assembly Get Resolutions to Appoint Investigators

DEMAND RESIGNATIONS
Senator Wants University Professors to Leave School and Board

Madison—(AP)—Resolutions were introduced in the assembly and senate today asking for an investigation of the State highway department. The senate resolution was by Sauthoff, of Madison. Frank Prescott, Milwaukee, was author of the assembly resolution.

They differ in that the senate resolution asks for a joint committee consisting of two senators and three assemblymen while Mr. Prescott's resolution would call for the naming of four assemblymen and three senators.

Senator Keppel of Holmen was author of a resolution asking for the resignation of the two ex-officio members of the highway commission Dean F. E. Turney and Prof. F. Bean of the University of Wisconsin from the highway body and the state school.

It states that in view of the fact that "standard of fair dealing and effort may be expected from the professors and deans at the university" . . . that it be resolved that by the participation in the unfair and questionable proceedings . . . they have demonstrated their utter unfitness for the positions they now hold in the University and in the state school.

WANT THE TRUTH
The Prescott resolution said that "whereas there have been unpleasant rumors" and considerable discussion of the discharge of Mr. Donaghey from the highway commission chief engineership and the resignation of secretary Torkelson a committee of four assemblymen and three senators should be appointed to look into the commissions books for evidence of connections with any paving or material or equipment interests. The committee was to have the power to subpoena witnesses and compel their attendance at its hearings.

Mr. Sauthoff's resolution said in part: "Whereas radical changes have been made in the last two weeks in the personnel of the state highway commission and because the people of this state are utterly in the dark as to the reasons for these summary and radical changes and rumors of gross irregularities are current."

Therefore be it resolved: That a committee of two members of the senate and three members of the assembly be appointed by the presiding officer of the two houses to make a thorough investigation. The people are entitled to know the truth. Such investigation shall be conducted with all possible dispatch and a report made to both houses. Said committee may subpoena, summon and compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books, papers, documents and records necessary to the investigation.

Senator W. L. Smith objected to immediate consideration of Sauthoff's resolution when its author asked that it be placed on the order of business for Tuesday.

Senator Titus, however, arose to support the immediate consideration of the resolution, saying that consideration of the confirmation of Governor Zimmerman appointment of T. J. Nemachek to the highway commission should be moved forward on the calendar so that it might be the basis of the investigation.

Sauthoff, however, declared that the purpose of the resolution was to get the investigation started ahead of the confirmation of the appointment adding that "if we are to be stopped by a technicality of one of the members of the legislature, this is putting the cart ahead of the horse; the primary purpose of this resolution is to see if there is anything rotten in Denmark before the confirmation of any further business of the commission."

Senator Casperson, then asked unanimous consent to have the confirmation matter postponed until two weeks from next Wednesday and this consent was given so that the Sauthoff resolution now will go through the regular revision routine and be reported for first and second reading next Tuesday.

ORDER RAILROAD MEN TO SUBMIT TO PHYSICAL EXAMS

Employees Must Be Physically Fit to Remain in Railroad Service

Under an order which became effective this month, all trainmen, engineers and yardmen of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad must submit to company surgeons for thorough physical examinations before April 15. This order will affect approximately 20 Appleton employees of the road, according to W. B. Basing, local agent.

This is the first time the road has put such an order into effect and the object is to prolong the lives and service of the railroad employees and to safeguard the public, the company and its workmen. According to the order, all employees found suffering from physical defects which will interfere with the proper discharge of their duties with safety to themselves and the public, will be temporarily or permanently dismissed from the service.

VISIT OWN DOCTOR

The examining physician will acquaint each employee with his exact physical condition and in cases of defect will advise the employee to visit his personal doctor for treatment. Unless the defect is found to be permanent, the employee will be taken back into service whenever the defect has been removed and he can pass the examination.

The railroad company, according to Mr. Basing, desires to retain its employees in service as long as possible and this desire is one of the factors in the movement. The company also feels that it cannot retain in service employees with physical defects which present a hazard to the safety of the employee, the public or the company.

The railroad further believes, according to Mr. Basing, that the discovery of incipient disease in employees and proper treatment during a period of temporary dismissal will save a large number of the employees from the diseases allowed to continue their ravages.

ONLY ONE WATER CONNECTION MADE SINCE NOVEMBER

Only one water connection was installed in Appleton since Dec. 1, by the water department, according to Fred Morris, secretary. This is not unusual because the department never installs connections during the winter except where there is urgent need.

Private homeowners, according to Mr. Morris, are advised to arrange their business so that all water connections can be made between April 1 and Dec. 1, as during the winter months the department refuses to install any connections unless there is absolute necessity, as in the case of some industrial plant.

During the past year 258 water connections were installed, which is about two-thirds of the average number installed by the department each year, according to Mr. Morris. The average cost of a water connection is $32.

During the latter part of March the department usually receives a large number of applications for connections and these are made after April 1.

CONTRACTORS GET CHURCH PLAN SOON

Expect to Award Contract for New Catholic Structure Late in February

Plans for the new Roman Catholic church and school to be erected at the corner of N. Durkee-st and E. Summer-st at an approximate cost of $100,000, will be distributed to contractors Saturday and Monday, according to Edward A. Wetterel, architect. Contracts will be awarded by the laymen's committee the latter part of February and it is hoped that construction will be started late in March or early in April.

The new church is to be known as "St. Teresa of the Little Flower of Jesus," and is the first church in the Green Bay diocese dedicated to this saint. The building is designed to allow it to be used entirely for school purposes in the future. The parish owns enough property adjoining the building to erect a new church when there is need for it.

The work is to be completed Sept. 1. Approximately 30 families are included in the new congregation.

day by the department of commerce which shows Wisconsin has 19 establishments engaged in this business. Illinois has 54.

COMMUNITY MUST HOLD ATTENDANCE IN RURAL SCHOOL

County Superintendent Meeting Puts Solution Up to Parents

The problem of rural school attendance is a matter for the community. Each community must solve its own difficulties concerning this question, otherwise the attendance average is apt to be low.

Thus does A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools suggest a method of bettering the attendance records in Outagamie-co's rural schools.

"The schools cost just as much when half the pupils are absent as when they are all present," he said. "Some absences are due to sickness and are of course excusable, but most of them are absences that show a poor appreciation of the value of school training. The pupil who is absent is not only losing ground himself, but he is holding back others. Out truancy law is not properly enforced, and I sincerely hope that the state legislature will enact a law that can and must be enforced."

Illness and the practice of parents of taking their children with them when they go to town are the principal causes for absence from school, according to the county superintendent. This latter practice often is followed because of the hesitancy of parents in leaving their children at home alone, but this difficulty might be solved by getting someone to stay with the children while the adults are absent, he suggested.

Although some schools have almost 100 per cent attendance records, many others are down to 65 per cent or even lower, he pointed out. Approximately 3,405 pupils are enrolled in rural schools, Supt. Meating states. Of this number, 126 are less than six years of age, while none are more than 20. The average daily attendance is 2,620. Only four rural schools have an enrollment of 60 or more each. No schools are open with five or fewer pupils, while 14 have from 6 to 10 children. The average attendance is between 20 and 30.

WATER COMMISSION READY TO BUY ADDITIONAL LAND

Purchase of 120 feet of land adjoining the east boundary of the property of the water department buildings on W. Water-st probably will be completed at the semi-monthly meeting of the water works commission at the semi-monthly meeting of the water works commission at the city hall next Tuesday afternoon. The land is being purchased from the Fox River Paper company and will be held as the location for a future addition to the department.

The purchase of this land has been delayed pending a title investigation. Alfred C. Bosser, city attorney, now has an abstract of the title and directors of the paper company were to formally pass on the sale after which the deal will be completed by the water commission.

SCHOOL HELPS STUDENTS SELECT THEIR LIFE WORK

Future life work and ambitions of seniors at Appleton high school will be discussed with H. H. Helble, principal, at conferences with individual students in February. These sessions are held annually to advise the students.

Those who wish to enter a school of higher education will be told of the requirements and accomplishments of special schools. Others who will enter the business world directly will be given vocational advice. The question of high school credits also will be considered. The record of the student will be examined and if there are any credits lacking for graduation an effort will be made to rectify the matter. There are 177 seniors this year. In 1926 there were 190.

HOLD FOOD SALE

Shamrock troop of the Appleton Girl Scouts association will have a food sale at Ryan and Long, plumbers, on W. College-ave, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Mrs. D. G. Lehman, leader of the troop, will have charge of the sale.

WORK IS SCARCE IN CITY, EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS INDICATE

Most Available Jobs Are Filled, and Many Are Seeking Employment

Practically every available position in Appleton is filled and several hundred men are applying daily at various employment agencies for work. At the Appleton Vocational school there are from 10 to 20 calls a day for work. The Y. M. C. A. employment bureau reports a large number of applications for common labor of any kind with practically no demand. T. F. Hackworth, street commissioner, states that he receives from five to 20 applications a day.

Nearly every factory employment office reports many applications for work but practically no demand for labor. Paper mills are employing fewer men this winter than ever before because the workers are staying at their positions more steadily. Other years there usually was a large turnover in labor.

Contractors completed building operations in this vicinity much earlier this year than other years and many men classed as "floating" labor were thrown out of work. While the condition is not considered serious here, there is a large group of men seeking employment of any kind.

Further proof of the fact is given by E. G. Schuler, poor commissioner, who states that his office is flooded daily with appeals for city aid.

VALLEY MILLS SEND MEN TO U. W. CLASSES

Practically every paper mill in the Fox river valley will be represented at two 10-day short courses in the manufacture of sulphite wood pulp, which will be given within the next two months at the United States Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, according to E. M. Gorrow of the district office of the University of Wisconsin Extension division. The division is sponsoring the course. The lessons will be given to two groups, each consisting of 15 sulphite superintendents and four bosses of Wisconsin paper mills.

The courses are limited to 15 men each so that each man will receive individual aid. The first will be held from Feb. 23 to March 10 and the second from March 21 to 31. Each will consist of 15 lectures.

BOARD DISCUSSES PLAN FOR PAPERMAKING CLASS

Plans for the pulp and paper making course to be offered in 1928 will be discussed at an adjourned meeting of the board of industrial education at the Appleton Vocational school, Monday evening, Jan. 31. The regular monthly meeting was held Tuesday evening and routine business was transacted. A discussion of the program for the boys of the day school also will take place at the adjourned meeting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN ANTI-FIRE CONTEST

Appleton chamber of commerce is participating in an inter-chamber fire waste contest, sponsored by the United States chamber. A questionnaire had been received at the local office to be filled out and returned. The contest is an annual affair.

Included in the questions are the number of schools and their population, fire losses of the year, number killed or injured by fires, educational activities promoted here, such as fire prevention and cleanup programs, instructions in the schools and the number of fire department activities, causes of fires here, fire legislation and permanent improvements.

STEINWAY THE INSTRUMENT OF THE IMMORTALS

JOSEPH HOFMANN uses the Steinway Exclusively

EIGHTY years ago, Henry Steinway began to manufacture pianos. But he was a musician first, and a manufacturer second. It simply never occurred to him to make any but the finest instruments. He never tried to meet popular demands. He never built a piano to meet a set price. He established rigid rules of construction that are observed to this day.

Since then, four generations of the Steinway family have maintained and strengthened the tradition of excellence established by Henry Steinway. There is a steady determination to bring the Steinway even closer to perfection each year. It is built under the personal supervision of the Steinway family who, now as always, own and control the entire business. Time is lavished upon it. Materials are tested over and over. And when at last the finished instrument is ready for the public, it is ready to uphold the Steinway name in any musical circle of the world.

Considered from the viewpoint of value given and received, the Steinway is one of the least expensive of all pianos. Its durability is so great, its return to the owner so generous, that any one of the many styles and sizes will prove the true economy that lies in buying the best. You need never buy another piano.

Any new Steinway may be purchased with a small cash deposit, and the balance will be extended over a period of two years. *Used pianos accepted in partial exchange.

GAROD TONE ACHIEVEMENTS

LOW fundamental tones are the very basis of the musical structure. In ordinary radio reception, you don't really hear the original bass notes — just their over-tones higher up. Average receivers lack the power to reach down and reproduce these low, vital tones that enrich music with their roundness and depth. Without power, too, most of the finer shadings — the delicate harmonics—are weakened or entirely lost. This explains why ordinary radio tone is artificial and "thin" . . . void of thrilling realism. Too much is missing! POWER is the absolute essential for the deeper and finer tones in radio. And now Garod-EA reproduces entirely by Electric Power!

What a world of glorious new musical tone now enriches Garod reception. This great achievement in quality of tone is the goal toward which radio engineering has been struggling for years. Now it is actually here. It is yours.

When your Garod Dealer demonstrates Electric Power Garod-EA, listen first to this amazing, new tone. After that, see how all battery nuisances are eliminated,

1. Electric POWER—equivalent to 10 "B" Batteries!
2. POWER Tubes—100 times stronger than standard tubes!
3. Powerful Transformer—steps up House Current to 450 volts!
4. Neutrodyne—eliminates "squeals"; guarantees world's finest selectivity!

No more recharging and replacing of batteries. No battery eliminators. Nothing to care for or worry about. Always ready

POWER for—
New Tone Range and Richness

CONSIDER the orchestra. The lowest tone is that of double bass viol with 42 vibrations per second. The highest is the shrill piccolo with 4,752. While the ordinary receiver is limited in range from 300 to 3,000 vibrations, new-era Garod, by Electric Power reaches down to deep low "C" with 32 vibrations and on up to astonishing 6,000 per second.

at peak strength. Never disappointing. No programs to lose because of run-down batteries. Giant power tubes, never over-loading, to prevent distortion.

It has been said that between recharging times, batteries give you satisfactory reception only 25% of the time. The remaining 75% you are listening to fast-weakening battery power that renders inferior performance. Now, with practical Garod ELECTRIC POWER RECEPTION, with no objectionable hum . . . all you do is plug into the exhaustless, uniform house circuit at less than ½¢ an hour operating cost.

You never will realize the beauty, depth and richness of ELECTRIC POWER TONE until you have heard it. Ask your Garod Dealer to turn Garod-EA on full-power. Thrilling, powerful dance music; then by a simple turn of the control . . . the sweetest melody you have ever heard. New in principle. New in tone.

Before you invest in a new set, spend a few minutes comparing Electric Power with battery-power tone. New Garod-EA is truly the forerunner of a new epoch in radio reception!

250 DADS AND SONS
ATTEND DINNER AND
HEAR GAMES TALKSpeaker Urges Fathers and Boys to Form Closer Comradships

Neenah — Two hundred and fifty fathers and sons gathered Thursday evening in Masonic temple for the banquet given by the Klwanis and Rotary clubs and officers of the Boys' Brigade in Neenah.

Dinner was served by the Eastern Star after which a program was presented. Invocation was given by the Rev. J. E. Schlackauf of the Methodist church, which was followed by mass singing led by George Nixon. George Sande, one of the older Brigade boys, was chairman of the meeting. Walter Rael, Willis Hans and Leslie Fader, high school boys, gave short talks, voicing the appreciation of the boys for the opportunity of having Mr. Gamel in Neenah.

The Balance Sheet was the subject of an hour's talk given by Mr. Gamel. "The father owes his son control to see that the son does not go wrong as the father has been appointed by God as the guide and will hold him responsible if the boy falls on his way from boyhood to manhood," the speaker charged. "It is a crime to shift the responsibility of the shaping of the boy's life to some other person who will allow the boy to drift out into unknown channels. The day will come when judgment is placed on the father by the son." The speaker pointed out that the father must have a clean life and be ever willing to instruct the boy in clean living and in companionship.

He then turned to the sons and stressed the importance of obedience to constituted authority as a fundamental principle of good citizenship. "Keep clean the father's name which you have, at all times and make it a point to form closer comradeship with the father in times of need," he urged. "Bringing up a boy is not an easy job, but it is a father's job. A man may not even delegate the discipline of his boy to that boy's mother, no matter how good a mother she may be. If you hedge a boy about with rules, he will ignore them just as far as he dares, but if you are the right kind of a man, and your boy's closest chum, you may count with responsible certainty upon your boy developing into the right kind of a man. The heart-breaking thing about our American life is that, because they are too busy or too careless, some multitude of fathers fail to maintain that relationship of close-up comradeship with their sons."

The session closed with a prayer by the Rev. D. C. Jones. The next father and son meeting will be held Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church.

LEGION MEETING

SMITH DEBATE IN SENATE ATTRACTS PACKED GALLERIES

Discussion Provokes More Interest Than Borah's Nicaraguan Speech

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Many folk got out of bed earlier than usual to attend the session that opened the Smith debate an hour before the usual opening of the Senate.

The galleries were packed tighter than at any time since Congress came for its present short session—more spectators than when Borah made his speech about Nicaragua.

The diplomatic gallery was empty, but that reserved for senatorial families was jammed and so were all the others. The scene was reminiscent of a Roman crowd all set to see an eminent Christian fed to the lions.

The fact that the eminent Mr. Smith had numerous defenders anxious to see that he at least be fed at a later date only tended to put more pep in the show. When all the seats were filled, people were allowed to sit in the aisles and soon these were jammed and it was a Titan's job to get out.

Downstairs many members of the House, led by Speaker Nick, were on hand and almost every senator was at his desk.

Cute little Alice Longworth, the speaker's wife, displayed great interest from her usual seat in one of the reserved galleries.

When the Senate finally refuses to accept Frank L. Smith of Illinois, Speaker Longworth will be glad to have him over in the House.

Speaker Nick, hero of an incipient presidential boom, staged what was virtually a public petting party with Smith on the Senate floor as he came over to attend the early session on the first day of debate over Smith's admissibility.

Not that Smith was actually hugged or kissed, but Speaker Nick grasped his paw, shook it cordially and patted him on the back so enthusiastically that 17 "Bs" to register an open endorsement of the senator-elect whom many senators think is unfit to sit among them.

Smith was welcomed by other Old Guardsmen, such as Senator Gillette of Massachusetts, but the Longworth greeting was the most fervent.

Smith sat to the rear of the senatorial desks. He looked like the headmaster of a boys' school.

The Smith debate showed more clearly than ever that one of the terms most loosely used in this dignified upper house of Congress is the appellation "distinguished constitutional lawyer."

On the slightest provocation, any senator will call any other senator, a "distinguished constitutional lawyer."

Sometimes it seems as if the term was used more or less ironically, but often it is given and taken quite seriously. If any senator here hasn't been called a "distinguished constitutional lawyer" he has grounds for vigorous complaint. The theory seems to be that anyone who will arise with a copy of the constitution itself and read certain portions therefrom automatically becomes a constitutional lawyer.

Privately, some of them may say with the late Senator Penrose, "What's the constitution among friends?" for the best constitutional lawyer is generally supposed to be one who can twist that famous document around and do the most tricks with it.

"I see they're voting to see whether Smith can have a seat in this car," remarked Fred Vogelsang, chauffeur of one of the fast motorized electric machines that carry senators from their offices to the capitol. "As far as I'm concerned, he can have a ride any time he comes down here into the subway."

Not a single snicker greeted Senator Jim Reed's assertion that "No one must come into the Senate without clean hands."

Church "Movie" Program
"Lightnin", a motion picture adapted from the famous stage play, will be shown at the First Congregational church at the Sunday evening services. J. Hunt plays the leading role in the play. The picture was scheduled to appear last week but was substituted for another.

Norman Knutzen, a student at Lawrence college, will sing "The Spirit of God" by Nedlinger.

PEACH BLOOM AT CARMEL

"Peaches" Browning and her mother, Mrs. Catherine Heenan, are shown as they appeared at the opening of Edward W. Browning's suit for separation from his 16-year-old wife, at Carmel, N. Y. Browning, millionaire retired real estate operator, charges that "Peaches" abandoned him.

PREDICT MILLION CARS IN WISCONSIN IN NEXT TEN YEARS

Good Roads Enthusiast Tells Highway Builders of Future Demands

Madison—(P)—Quoting a prophetic passage on the "raging of chariots in the streets," F. A. Cannon, executive director of the Good Roads association, predicted that a million automobiles would be owned in Wisconsin "ten years from now," in an address before the annual road school Wednesday night.

Traffic, according to Mr. Cannon, increases in a ratio to motor vehicle registration, and hence, at the end of ten years the traffic will have increased fifty per cent.

"So far as the volume of the traffic is concerned, surveys made in several states show that there is a close and practically constant relationship between growth of motor vehicle registration and the increase in traffic. If we can make an approximate estimate of the increase in motor vehicle registration, we can make an approximate estimate of the increase in the volume of the traffic."

"The average prediction is, that what is sometimes called the 'saturation point' in motor vehicle ownership, will be reached when there is one car for each four people, and thereafter, the registration will increase in the same ratio as the increase in population. On the basis of an increase in population of 12.5 per cent in Wisconsin, in the ten years period ending with 1920, and applying this basis to the ten year period ending in 1927, Wisconsin would have a population of approximately 2,400,000 people, an ownership of one car to every four people would then give an ownership of 600,000 cars. Today, Wisconsin has 600,000 motor vehicles of all types, or an ownership of one car to every 4.2 people. In my judgment, Wisconsin's ownership will be greater than one car to four people, and I feel safe in predicting an ownership of 800,000 cars or upward in 1937."

"What does this mean for the traffic of the future? It means an increase of 50 per cent, or that a road carrying a traffic of 2,000 vehicles a day, would carry a traffic of 3,000 in 1937; or a road carrying 3,000 today would carry 4,500 in 1937."

MATZ TAKES COMEDY ROLE IN CLUB PLAY

"Theat 'em rough, tell 'em nothing, and you'll be taking them to Niagara Falls on their honeymoon," is the advice of Robert Matz who takes the part of Bill Drum, press agent for the "Snap It Up Co." in the three act play, "Honor Bright" to be presented by the Matz company in their comedy, "Honor Bright."

Miss Destry Chamberlin will play the part of Tot Marvel, the chorus girl with an aptitude for vamping the sons of "the first families of Boston." She really is in love with Drum.

Characters in the play are portrayed with skill by the workshop members, Miss Elinor Strickland, dramatic director at the club and coach of the play, announced. Many of them have had several years' experience in the workshop and in acting together.

Miss Johanna E. Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoffman, N. Onondaga-st., left for New York city to take post-graduate work of Columbia university. Miss Hoffman is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

Seymour Lady Spent Over $1000 Without Getting Any Relief

After all hope seemed lost she started on Drego and she is now in perfect health.

"After fifteen years of suffering, your wonderful medicine has at last made me well and I now go about my work singing and as happy as I can be," declared Mrs. Harriet E. Scott in a recent talk with the Drego man at his headquarters at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store. Mrs. Scott lives in Seymour, a suburb of Appleton, and has a host of friends thru-out this section.

"I was completely run down when I first read Drego in the paper. My stomach was so disturbed I denied myself even the food I liked best for even a glass of milk would turn sour and form gas as soon as I drank it. 'The gas was terrible. Sometimes I'd belch so loud it could be heard all over the house and it would blot me out and press against my heart. I thought I had heart trouble. I was always belching up sour, burning liquids that would almost choke me and the pain in my stomach was almost unbearable. I also suffered from constipation, headaches, pains in my back and nervousness and I was so restless at night I woke up just as tired as when I went to bed."

"I spent over $1000.00 trying to get well but nothing seemed to suit my case till I started on Drego. 'This wonderful remedy went right to the root of my trouble, however, and now I am completely well. I can eat anything without suffering the least distress with my stomach afterwards, my bowels are as regular as the clock, the pains in my back and head have been relieved, and when my head touches the pillow at night I go right to sleep and don't know a thing till the next morning."

The Drego Man

"Drego is surely a wonderful medicine and I want to recommend it to everyone of my friends."

Mr. H. W. C. Marr-Baker, the well-known Expert from the Drego Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Drego for best results. Go to see him.

AMERICAN POLICY IN MEXICO

There are some Americans who like to take sides with other nations when differences between them and the United States arise. There are politicians who flatter themselves that they gain popularity by a similar course. The controversy with Mexico is a conspicuous example. Pseudo-statesmen in the house and senate wave their arms and make a lot of noise about the injustice or impropriety of the state department's demanding protection for American lives and property in Mexico. It is held to be a move of oil interests or of plutocrats generally throughout the country. Not a hand should be lifted to protect and to safeguard these mercenary interests. The government should stand idly by and let American investments in Mexico be violated and confiscated. American dollars and American enterprise in Mexico are of no consequence. They are the legitimate prey of irresponsible rulers, revolutionists and politicians who transgress every precept of international law. Men like Calles are, to these critics of American policy, world benefactors, great humanitarians—the force that interposes itself between the fist of oppression and the face of misery.

Calles and his government are like all of the governments Mexico has ever had, both before and after Diaz. With the solitary exception of Diaz' long iron rule, there never has been a time since Mexico achieved its independence when its external bonds or interest were paid, its international obligations discharged or the lives of other nationals were safe. There have been brief spurts toward reform, true patriots have arisen for a day; there have been glimpses of real political advance and popular uplift, but only glimpses. With the exception we have noted, the Mexican record for one hundred years is one of unbroken repudiation and double-dealing with foreigners. Yet it has all this time invited foreign capital to come into Mexico, without which it would have been helpless and without which no development and no modernizing of the country would have taken place. American investments in Mexico today are estimated at $1,500,000,000. It is obvious what this has meant to a country without capital of its own. All of the progress Mexico has made socially and economically has been under the influence of American and other developers of its resources. Once there they have been treated with the same consideration as bondholders who were appealed to for loans.

There may be those that will contend that we should have left Mexico untouched; that neither the United States, Great Britain nor any other country should have loaned it money or suffered investments to be made there, for it is certain that that is the only policy under which the disputes that have constantly arisen in Mexico could have been avoided. This theory of foreign policy means that we should have refused to have anything to do with Mexico diplomatically, commercially or financially. Such a situation and such relationships, we submit, are impossible, even if they were desirable, which they are not. The world must somehow live together and maintain business and political and social relationships. We had to do it for Mexico, and the desirability of the course is not altered because it was to our advantage as well as Mexico's. The development of Mexican mines alone has created an enormous industry for the United States, giving employment, better wages and better living conditions to numerous Mexicans and contributing to American prosperity.

Those who rail against the state department's objection to the confiscation of American property in Mexico and its intervention in behalf of the oil interests, would be the first to criticize a governmental policy which restricted our sources of oil supply, or which isolated us in our domestic fuel resources. If British and other interests secured a monopoly of the world's oil, our government would be denounced for its improvidence and for its failure to encourage the expansion of American oil holdings and developments in available countries. The only logical effect of the policy advocated by those who denounce the government in its attitude toward Mexico and who censure the state department for its efforts to protect American investments in Mexico, is that Americans should keep out of every country in the world and confine their activities to this country alone. The absurdity of such a proposition is apparent on its face. If they did, we would be left far behind in the international competition for commercial supremacy, and we could be neither prosperous nor powerful.

No one advocates war with Mexico so far as we know, and few are advocating armed intervention. We do not believe it is the government's policy to undertake either, no matter what Mexico does with alien property holdings. Presumably we would defend American lives in Mexico, and presumably Calles' defenders here would permit that, but there is no thought of war. That being the case, will any one point out just where the wrong is in endeavoring to make Mexico live in accordance with international law, observe the sanctity of contract and be a decent and orderly country? Those who are shedding tears for her and berating the state department and the oil interests are, we feel, a trifle mock heroic in their pretended service to the under dog.

BASEBALL HEROES CLEARED

Judge Landis has announced a decision clearing Cobb and Speaker of charges made against them by Dutch Leonard, retired pitcher formerly with Detroit. Leonard's charge was that they had been involved in the fixing of an American League game with Cleveland, played in Detroit September 25, 1919. Judge Landis says: "These players have not been, nor are they found, guilty of fixing a ball game. By no decent system of justice could such finding be made. Therefore, they were not placed on the ineligible list. As they desire to rescind their withdrawal from baseball, the releases which Detroit and Cleveland clubs granted at their requests in the circumstances detailed above, are cancelled and these players' names are restored to the reserve lists of those clubs." Thus ends a case which probably should never have been brought to the attention of the public. It was apparent from the evidence deduced at the hearing and published by order of Judge Landis, that the charges would fall. Nothing was brought out to incriminate either Cobb or Speaker in a conspiracy. Their alleged interest in a betting arrangement was collateral, and did not even involve moral turpitude. Moreover, the evidence against them was by a disgruntled player who had a personal grievance to satisfy.

The supposed scandals touching professional baseball have now been dispeised of and all of those concerned have been given a clean bill of health. Unquestionably the public is satisfied with this verdict, and particularly so in the case of Cobb and Speaker whose popularity was so great and whose record so high that baseball fans simply refused to believe them guilty of misconduct. It is well for baseball that the facts are as they have been proved and that no crooked work has been going on. The permanency of professional baseball rests entirely on keeping the game square. If the time ever comes when it is not, it will lose its hold on the public.

It is a matter for regret that Cobb and Speaker had to face the unpleasantness of the notoriety to which they were subjected. It is to be doubted whether it was a case that required public airing. It rested entirely on the unsupported charges of Leonard. Complaint is one thing and evidence to prove it another. Since the evidence was lacking, it would seem there was little reason for bringing the defendants before the bar of public opinion.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

A. F. H. B. P.

Every one who has gone out much to dine with friends or had friends in to dine, knows the meaning of F. H. B. and M. I. K. At any rate father knows the importance of signalling family hob back and mother knows the relief of the assurance that there is more in the kitchen.

I should like to borrow the F. H. B. legend or the idea for a label which, if I were king, would go on every box, bottle or package of physic sold. I favor a law prohibiting false, fraudulent, unreasoned or exaggerated assertions as to the effect of physics, not only such assertions on the label but lies the purchaser gets in circulars, booklets or other wrapping or packing with the physic. If the reign of King William (not to confuse the name with that of old King Brady) ever does come to pass I'll see to it that a large and unmistakable label shall go on every package of physic apprising the purchaser that A. F. H. B. P.

All physics do hold back peristalsis. There is no denying that. Even the grannies know that every dose of castor oil is inevitably followed by a next day of binding effect. Even the poor glibble goof who imagines some kind of saline laxative or herb physic "purifies the blood" knows that his constiveness is rather worse the day after the insult to his digestion than it was the day before.

Of course my royal no fooling with drugs act would not apply to petroleum jelly or paraffin, nor to bran, nor to seaweed, nor to flaxseed, for under my regime no one would dare call these things physics. These things do not increase peristalsis, but only render the residue more easily propelled by the peristaltic contractions.

Petroleum jelly is known by various trade names, but officially it is called petroleum. Soft petroleum which is nearly colorless is not repugnant to taste, and even the common yellowish petroleum jelly is not disagreeable for some persons. This is generally preferable and less expensive than the innumerable brands of liquid, petroleum or "mineral oil," and a teaspoonful, more or less, taken night and morning regularly for a few weeks, enables many a victim of the constipation habit to overcome the habit. It is generally advisable not to take petroleum in any form near mealtimes, for it tends to coat the food with a film of oil which is of course not digestible.

The practice of eating a dish of plain wheat bran with or as a breakfast cereal is a healthy one for everyone except a real invalid who should have his physician's advice. Propaganda lately issued, at the behest of the physic interests I believe, should not frighten any one off his bran. Even better than the plain bran is the eating of the entire unmilled wheat, either raw or cooked a little while or cooked for hours, according to individual preference.

Many persons find that a daily spoonful of unground flaxseed, washed down raw with water, serve the purpose which the expensive seaweed preparations serve, to furnish a bulky residue which retains considerable moisture and so gives a lubricant effect as well as a suitable mass for peristaltic propulsion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Birth Mark

I have a birth mark on my forehead that I would like to get rid of, if you can tell me how to do this and what treatment you would prescribe. (J. K.)

Answer—Consult a physician, or one who is a skin specialist if you prefer, and leave the matter of treatment to his judgment. Do not tamper with such a blemish or permit anyone to do so.

There's Only One Rejuvenation

I am 62, in good health, but feel the weakness of my age creeping over me, for I can no longer do work I formerly did. I have an invalid relative to support and the thought of losing my earning capacity is very depressing. Please give me some information regarding "Rejuvenation." Does Steinach operation mean the same? Can such a treatment be had in this city? Is it very expensive? What is your opinion of such treatment? (A. J.)

Answer—So far as your desire and purpose may be concerned there is but one rejuvenation—summed up in a complete health examination by your doctor and then follow the advice he will give you. The Steinach operation consists of ligation (tying off) the tubes or ducts of the sex glands and in no way preserves or prolongs general health or vigor.

DISCOURAGING NEWS

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By—Arnold Mulder

Philosophers As Human Beings

Herbert Spencer, who devoted the greater part of his life to analyzing human society, was personally so unsocial that he refused absolutely to see the admirers who flocked to him from all over the world. He could not bother with them and did not want to see them, and when people insisted on coming to see him he insisted on coming into his ears and listened placidly to their conversation, able to think his own thoughts while these visitors were buzzing.

Friedrich Nietzsche, who was the inventor of the "superman", was so far from being a superman himself in his personal relations that almost any ordinary cloidhopper could have shown him a number of tricks. Almost anybody could persuade some girl to marry him, but not Nietzsche. He tried hard but failed, and over after he had the very human delusion that women are inferior. He talked like Napoleon and Caesar and Alexander rolled into one and in his books the Bismarcks of this world are mere toys and pawns to him. In real life, in his own person, he would hardly have been noticed in a roomful of ribbon clerks. He talked grandiosely in his books of the real upper classes, the aristocracy of wealth and power, including himself among them, using the pronoun "we," while living in a garret on less than a $1,000 a year.

Immanuel Kant, who dominated the philosophy of the world for a century or more and who is still so much of a living force in the world of thought that every thinker must know him and reckon with him, was of so little account personally in his own surroundings that during his whole life his neighbors had not the slightest suspicion that he was a great man. He never traveled farther than 15 miles from his home and led a restricted life, physically, that is almost inconceivable. Less than five feet tall, he would to day, in the parlance of the street, be called an "insignificant little runt." He was an obscure, insignificant little professor, laughed at and made fun of in an affectionate kind of way by those who knew him best. He was so regular in his habits that, when he went for his walk at half past three in the afternoon, his neighbors set their watches by it. And that was literally his only recreation. He was nothing to the busy life all about him and it was nothing to him. As a human being he was zero; as a thinker he was one hundred per cent.

Arthur Schopenhauer, perhaps the greatest woman hater of the nineteenth century as well as one of the greatest philosophers of that century, was no less unsocial. He hated his own mother with such a bitter hatred that during the last 24 years of her life he never once saw her. As a young man he had some adventures in love but they were so disastrous that he learned to hate women. He was so suspicious of everybody that he kept his pipes under lock and key and he did not dare let a barber shave him for fear that his throat would be cut; he always kept loaded pistols beside his bed though there was practically nothing to stand in his shabby room and he was living in a highly peaceful community. When he sent his first book to the publisher he sent a note with it saying, among other things, that in his opinion the book was "clearly intelligible, vigorous, and not without beauty," that it was a book "which would hereafter be the source and occasion of a hundred other books." The queer part of this is that it was true and that this queer, unsocial being was one of the world's greatest thinkers.

Another great thinker, Spinoza, never did anything more practical than polishing lenses. He did this for a living but he took great pains never to polish one more lens than was absolutely necessary to pay for his board and room. At the end of each year he wanted to be like Carnegie, absolutely poor, with no surplus and he actually cut up his accounts at the end of the year to see that he did not earn more than was necessary. His only recreation was smoking. He was considered a nobody, but he has influenced human thought for 300 years.

Almost every philosopher in the world's history had something queer about him. As human beings nearly all philosophers have been minus quantities and usually their neighbors had no suspicion of their greatness.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE BAY IS KNOWN BY ITS PLEASANT ODOR

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
Bright, shining, green leaves, creamy white flowers exhalant an exquisite fragrance, leaves emitting a pleasant odor upon being crushed—every easterner knows and loves this tree, "Magnolia glauca."

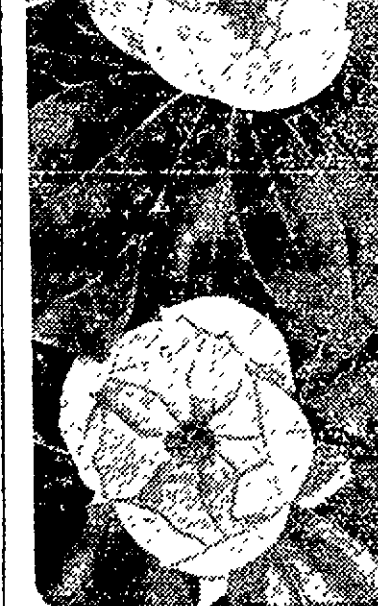

It is found from Massachusetts to Florida and along the coast to Texas and southern Arkansas, usually in damp places, in swamps, and along the borders of lakes and streams. The tree, though beautiful, has little commercial value.

There are many local names for this favorite such as sweet bay, laurel magnolia, swamp bay, white bay and beaver tree.

The settlers in Pennsylvania found that beavers were exceedingly fond of the fleshy roots of the sweet bay and made profitable use of this discovery by baiting their beaver traps with the root, and naturally in such localities the trees became known as the beaver tree.

Europe, too, has its sweet bay tree, belonging to the family to which our sassafras and spice bush belong. It is most often seen in the country as a tall plant for decorative purposes.

Romance attaches to this sweet bay or laurel, for the ancients held it sacred to Apollo and chaplets and wreaths were fashioned from its leaves and used to crown heroes and victors. From this custom of honoring the poets of ancient times the term poet laureate has come down to us.

CITY PLANNING IN APPLETON

What is that, that we hear about, Appleton zoning ordinance, about the city plan commission, about the Board of appeals, about the wiping out of the zoning ordinance?

What use is there in spending thousands of dollars of your money in getting a well known city planner here in Appleton to zone it, and then find that a few narrow minded citizens want to wipe it out? And why? Only because it affected their own interest, and that they did not take into consideration the interest of the whole city.

What is this that we hear that a city all ready built can't be zoned or planned—what is this that only a new city can have zoning laws, and a definite city plan? So these few men wish to have us believe that an institution that is being run raggedly, cannot be changed to have it run in order.

Haven't we hired a city planner to draw up an ordinance that would fit this particular city, these conditions that now exist in Appleton? Do these men want us to believe that when we have been making mistakes we must continue so well—that is just what they want us to believe.

We have noticed a number of petitions coming up before the city plan commission, and when this commission has studied the problems and voted it down or not granted—we found some force being taken to take the petition directly before the council for their consideration, in other words a direct slap to the city plan commission—a group of men, a majority of whom are working for the city as a whole. These men that have seen Appleton grow, and want to see it keep on growing—men that give their valuable time free of charge for the interest of the city.

What is this we hear we will take it over the heads of the city plan commission and have the council pass it. The common council voted in by the people who in turn vote to spend the people's money to get Appleton zoned, who in turn appoint a city plan commission to take care of the growing of the city—throw away all these things, and pass on a petition to permit any one to establish any kind of business in any part of the city—regardless on what street it is—what community.

Do these men want us to believe that we should be like the shiftless parents that, every time their child comes for money to give it to him and what becomes of the child—so with this beautiful city—that every time a property owner living on a corner wants his lot turned into a business location so he can operate a little business to grant it—even if the location does not invite business competition. Where is there a citizen of Appleton that has built himself a house to call his home and then to see his neighbors place a business of some kind right adjacent to his property—put up a building up to the sidewalk line, when he himself most provide a front yard—where is there a citizen who would not cry out—there is none—but, dear citizens, the smashing of the city ordinance is going to do this very thing. Why do people travel abroad—only to see the beautiful laid out cities, business streets with beautiful shade trees—what would happen if a beautiful shade tree stood on College-ave—the first thing that would happen would be to cut it down. Citizens, you love to travel Wisconsin's wonderful highways—but O! isn't that an "awful" heat that is reflected from the pavement—citizens this would not have to be if our fore fathers were not so money crazed. Look at that wonderful stretch concrete that lies just before entering Oshkosh lined by beautiful shade trees. Let us plant trees along our highways and let us above all save our own shade trees here in the city.

Zoning, we hear cannot be made to fit a city like Appleton and yet New York City one of the oldest cities in America was the first one to zone itself and here Appleton a century or two younger than New York City cannot be zoned to prevent bad planning.

What do we hear when a new business wishes to start operation and when it is restricted to a certain district? We hear, "All right we will locate outside of the city or in another city." Isn't it too bad for a man to be so narrow that laws are alright until his own interest is affected, then it is "Out with that law." Where are the real leaders in Appleton that want to see Appleton grow, to see it getting beautiful, to see its business sections grow up and fill up. Why is this we hear—that Cherry, Richmond and Wisconsin Avenues will become business streets—why haven't we begun to build up our College Avenue as it should be built up. Do you citizens realize that a tourist when going through a city will not buy when he has no need of it, and when he does he will take time to go to the business district for his particular business. You cannot force a tourist to buy.

Why do we have the Board of City Plan Commission, and the Board of Appeals—only for that one reason that when the zoning ordinance cannot be at the particular situation these boards have the power to change the ordinance to permit a change where ever it is really necessary. We heard of the zoning law as a hard fast law, certainly it is for it's intentions were to carry out this law, but the ordinance provides these boards to meet conditions that are serious ones. Prof. L. C. Smith of the University of Wisconsin—the city planner of Appleton, drew up this zoning ordinance to fit Appleton. This study of Appleton for a period of three months—traveling every street of the city—with a life long study of cities in every state of the Union with twelve trips to Europe studying city planning in every city—ought to know how to fit a zoning ordinance to so small a city as Appleton.

So you citizens whose money is keeping this beautiful city of ours running, let's keep it going, let's see it grow, let's help it grow right and let's say as one of the greatest city planners this country has known.

"What is good for the whole city is good even for me."

WALTER ZSCHAECHNER,
City Building Inspector.

MATT SCHMIDT & SON

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

Broken Threads

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE the home of PROF. and MOLLIE ELWELL, in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1888, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years, to a woman, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Finally, however, he is identified in a New York hospital and his mother and father see him and find he has completely lost his memory and speech. He is like a living dead man.

At the hospital they are told by NURSE NELLIE DOWNING of the return from Europe of a celebrated brain specialist who might cure their son.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVIII
Shortly after word was received that Dr. Lawson had sailed for America, an order went through transferring Jim Elwell to a hospital on Staten Island.

Even within walking distance of the institution, Prof and Mollie again took up their residence and their vigil of waiting for circumstance or science to give them back their Jim of pre-war days. But circumstances and science work out their ends some times in ways that are slow and misleading.

Life on Staten Island was a welcome exchange for that of the restricted hospital environment of Brooklyn's suburbs. The institution was reached by trackless trolley from the downtown street car line which connected with the ferry.

A forest of oaks and maples surrounded the place. Sloping swards and grassy dells with the salt air from the ocean and New York Bay made it a health resort of the most desirable kind. Motion picture shows and a cafeteria provided entertainment and little luxuries for patients, nurses and doctors. Under more enjoyable conditions Prof and Mollie would have pronounced it, an ideal place to pass the summer.

During these days Jim was taken on numerous trips to New York City, to come to the city, accompanied by Prof, Mollie and Nellie Downing. Sometimes Mike Hennegan, still at the other hospital, would get a day off and visit them.

Mike Hennegan told Jim's mother one day, "If you ask me, I think there's hope for the boy. He's a lot better off now than the day I first laid eyes on him in the other hospital."

Mike tapped his head. "Only," he said, "only there seems to be something wrong with the machinery up here. There's something that's either snapped or that's got a clog in the line somewhere. I've got a hunch we're gonna pull him through."

Mollie Elwell was grateful even for the poor assurance of a layman like Mike Hennegan. It was pitiful to Prof, watching her, to see how eagerly she nodded at Mike's words and pressed him with more questions.

On occasions like this Prof Elwell would go off to a corner by himself and meditate. This thing, he told himself, was going to kill Mollie. If something didn't happen. And the twins—away out there in Indiana, dying to see Jim, but it was so useless to let them see him in his present state. Not, at least, until they knew that nothing further could be done.

One day Prof and Mike Hennegan took Jim over to New York and up in the tower of the Woolworth Building. While he attracted some notice from the more observing ones by the more or less automatic manner in which he walked and handled himself, he was not particularly conspicuous. Prof taught him to pay his own fare on the trolley cars and at the ferry, and although he had no appreciation of money values he would take change when it was given to him and put it in his pocket. While lacking initiative to any appreciable extent, he seemed to possess powers of imitation nowadays to a marked degree.

These powers of imitation, however, were of a nature which occasionally brought about curious and sometimes rather embarrassing situations.

As one of the hospital doctors remarked to an interne one day, "Through imitative action he has learned to shake hands with any person who offers his hand. He has learned to put his arms around his mother and kiss her. This he often does of his own volition when she happens to be within easy reaching distance."

At some nurse chances to be near, he is just as likely as not to try out his imitative powers on her."

The doctor laughed humorously. "The strange factor in this imitative tendency is that this Elwell seems to be equipped with a discriminating faculty for sorting out the good looking ones."

The interne laughed, too. "It would seem to be a little method in the man's madness."

"It has aroused a good deal of speculation. Could it be instinct that would lead a man to pick out a good looking girl, rather than a highly developed taste? You know, even among abnormal men there often exists a total disability to select a pretty girl."

"This nurse, Miss Downing, now, she's with the patient considerably—devotes nearly all her off hours to him or his parents. Naturally, she has come in for a share of these attentions from Elwell. And the funny part of it, man, is that she seems to like it!"

"I've seen the thing happen a couple of times myself—when nobody was with the patient but herself, and she did nothing to try to discourage him."

The interne ventured to say that it looked as if Nellie Downing had found considerable of an attraction in the good looking soldier with the lost memory.

"As far as looks go, she could have picked far worse, you'll admit."

"I do," said the doctor. "If she hasn't fallen in love with him—a little bit, at least—then it is one of the strangest cases of unselfish devotion on the part of a nurse that I have ever encountered. Why, man, she's been through hell over in France! She's seen so many terrible cases—men torn to pieces, men turned idiots, all kinds of men and hulks of men—that her interest in the Elwell case isn't well, it's surprising, to say the least."

"You think there's any chance of his getting back on his feet?"

The doctor shrugged. "One man's guess is as good as another on that. You can go only so far, then you're stopped. I've seen shell-shocked patients that seemed hopeless and seen them recover. But I've never seen one exactly like this."

It is true that Nellie Downing had come in for some of these "attentions" from Jim Elwell. But of course, as she told Jim's mother one day when Mollie chanced to observe Jim's newly acquired proficiency, it didn't mean anything.

Mollie, however, was not so sure about this. At least, there were certain aspects of the thing that puzzled her. She remarked about them later to Prof.

"I don't know that it would be so altogether improbable," she went on, after telling of the incident she had witnessed, "that a girl might get to caring for a man in Jim's condition when she is with him as much as Nellie Downing is with Jim."

"You know, Prof dear, Jim is uncommonly good looking. You've got to admit that."

Prof. smiled. "Every mother thinks that of her son."

"But Jim really is. Of course, so far as he is concerned he doesn't realize in the least what he does. Even so, it is likely to cause talk just the same. And Nellie is a dear girl and has been awfully good to us. I should be very, very sorry if anything were to occur to hurt her. I think I shall have to try to untangle Jim one of the things he has learned."

"I wouldn't worry, Mollie," Prof. told her. "What if the girl does like him. She realizes what a condition he is in. And Jim, if he does recover, will remember that his sweetheart is back in Indiana."

Prof's eyes clouded. "Poor Rusty—or Dusty—whatever it is. Of course, I'd hate to see Nellie Downing hurt, but she realizes the conditions."

It has been said that there is considerable difficulty attached to teaching an old dog to do new tricks. The records failed to state whether a young dog can be taught to undo old tricks.

Probably Jim had not acquired a regular habit of kissing Nellie Downing. Complete data on the subject were unobtainable. . . . He had just got a taste of something that seemed to be his liking. It didn't mean anything, as Nellie Downing said. . . .

The announcement came finally that Dr. Lawson, the brain specialist, was back from Europe and would pay a visit to the Staten Island institution. A few days later he arrived.

Jim was given an examination. This long-anticipated event took up less than ten minutes of the great surgeon's time.

"There is no way," he told Prof and Mollie and Nellie Downing, "of determining the condition of a shell-shocked brain except by the removal of a portion of the skull bone. An X-ray through the bone seldom shows anything save a blur. The tissues of the brain may have been disturbed by the shock—may have become jumbled, or just a blood clot may be resting on a nerve center—pressing there is a better word."

In either case, he continued, an operation would be exceedingly dangerous. "It might result satisfactorily and it might not. If you want to take the chance I will operate, but I can give you no assurance that such an operation would be a success. No one would. I'm afraid. It might very easily prove fatal."

Was there any possibility, Prof Elwell asked him, of his recovering his memory without an operation?

"It depends entirely upon the condition of the brain," replied the surgeon guardedly. "If it is just a blood clot there a shock might jar it loose. Such a shock also might prove fatal."

Nellie Downing—and the Prof's keen eyes noticed that she was trembling slightly—"if his thinking brain is wholly paralyzed—why is it that seeing tears in the eyes of another person sometimes brings tears to his own eyes and that music, especially that of a harp—something that was suggested

PRINCIPALS DISCUSS SURVEY OF HONESTY

Reports on the character poster service and honesty surveys at Appleton high school were made by H. Hebble, principal, at a meeting of Junior and senior high school principals with Ben J. Bohan, superintendent of schools, Tuesday morning. English classes of the high school designed the posters and composed the verses and the vocational school printing classes did the mechanical work. The posters will be distributed to the schools in the city.

The honesty survey was made by means of a questionnaire sent to 15 high schools in the state which were entering the survey. Seniors at Appleton were given the questions. That little dishonesty is found in Appleton was the general belief.

A salary schedule for teachers the coming year was discussed by the principals. It will be considered by a committee from the board of education in February.

Grandmother's Class Is Organized To Teach Them To Be Of Help Instead Of Hindrance To Modern Mothers

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEW YORK—Grandma—mind, you got your schoolwork now. The blooms of science sweep clean. Having brushed the old-fashioned mother into disrepute in favor of the scientific one, the new mother is now directed toward the old-style grandmother.

The grandmothers, once, were sacred, but now, being old-fashioned, they are numbered.

The Child Study Association of America is opening a grandmother's class, designed to make grandmothers a blessing instead of a hindrance to the modern mother.

Mrs. Cecile Pipel, mother of four and grandmother of two, is the leader.

ALL HAVE LOTS OF TROUBLE
The grandmothers of New York bring to the class all their problems of tangled allegiance in the home, warranted and unwarranted interference, etc.

The class is a pioneer project. It will be followed by similar ones in all the cities. Soon, it is planned, every broad-minded grandmother in the country will be doing her stuff under the auspices of the alert association.

Everybody has a grandmother. It seems. Letters received by Mrs. Pipel from many places indicate a wide interest in this really urgent problem of old-fashioned grandmother versus modern mother.

And the women who attend the meetings here belong to both types of grandmother—the white-haired, black-stockings group, and the marcelled, French-heeled clan. They are learning about their grandchildren what there was no one to teach them about their own children.

ANSWER NOT IN BOOKS
"How can I be a part of my daughter's family, without intruding?" or "Why does my grandson resent my interest in his school work?" or "Is it right for my daughter-in-law to forbid my giving candy to the children?" they ask.

And Mrs. Pipel answers, not from books, but from that store of knowledge which she has gained in her own family, and from the confidences of hundreds of other women whom she has met in her thirty years of work with the association.

"The most important question is that of divided authority in a house," she says.

"The answer is: MOTHERS RESENT INTRUSION
"Let the mother rule—with the grandmother's subsidiary advice. A child is like an animal. It knows its master, and resents outside interference.

"The grandparent who argues against a mother before her children is alienating them from herself, for children idealize their parents, and are offended by her suggesting that their mother is not perfect.

"Then, too, most mothers, however patient they may be toward older people, resent an intrusion on their maternal rights.

"A golden rule for grandmothers is: Never interfere in times of trouble. Get in your good work when the seas are calm, and neither child nor mother overwrought.

"The all-important thing for any third party to a family quarrel is the art of self-effacement, no matter which side she agrees with."

The second rule on Mrs. Pipel's stone tablets is: "Buy your grandchildren's love with interest, not gifts."

"Children are intuitive enough to recognize any attempt to win them over without genuine interest and affection. Of course children love presents, but they don't love the giver who doesn't give himself too.

SHOULD TAKE AN INTEREST
"Grandmothers have an excellent chance to build up companionship with their grandchildren, by taking an interest in their activities. The older woman who does not bear the burden of ruling a household ought to be a sympathetic companion to a child, willing to give him the attention which his mother cannot give."

The child fed by rote and test-tube sadly needs a grandmother, Mrs. Pipel believes. "I don't recommend indiscriminate feeding, of course. But mothers should settle with grandmothers what sweets may be given a child and when."

The youngster who never got a cookie from his grandmother has missed a lot, I think. Scientific diet, like everything else, may be overdone.

MODERNS ARE FADDISTS
"The danger nowadays is that modern mothers will become faddists, in their zeal for the latest methods. Too many children develop into repressed, selfish, blasé adults because natural human affection was subordinated to somebody's book on child-rearing."

"Grandmothers should set their wits against these fads. But to select the good and discard the bad, they must study. The old-fashioned fanatic is as bad as the new-fashioned fanatic."

The business of being a grandmother involves all the tact and understanding of a woman who has lived a long, rich life, Mrs. Pipel declares.

"Remember that the young mother is a pet sometimes because she isn't sure of her ground, and is confused by the advice of others. Poised and tranquil age should make allowance for the uncertainty of youth."

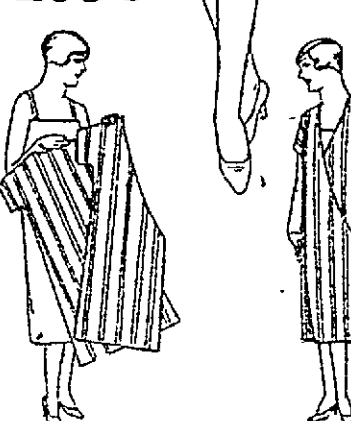

MOTHERS OWE RESPECT
Mothers, too, have their duties toward grandmothers, Mrs. Pipel says. And the first of these is to show respect for age, if only for an example to their own children.

The second is not to shift-burden of their children upon the grandmother, and not to let her dominate the home.

And the chief rule of all, for everybody concerned with children is: "Remember that nobody is RIGHT, and nobody WRONG, intrinsically."

"Children are intuitive enough to

BOWS TO SHINGLE AGAIN
London—(P)—Princess Arthur of Connaught has had her hair shingled again, after allowing it to grow several months.

With the exception of Lady Carlisle, sister-in-law of the Queen of Spain, she is the only member of the Royal Family who had recently given the shingle royal favor. Her husband, Prince Arthur, is said to approve of it, although the King and Queen are known to look with disfavor on modern "crops."

The Princess first had her hair shingled in South Africa several years ago when her husband was Governor-General.

The new style in hair dressing for elderly British women is to have their hair curled like a barrister's wig. If the hair is gray it makes it all the more effective. Worn with pearls and a black velvet frock, the style is attractive.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Faith and her father and Junior left the street car a block from the jail, followed by half a dozen curious passers, delighted at this opportunity to witness even one small scene of the great drama.

As they walked up the steps of the big, gloomy, red brick building a press photographer snapped their pictures. Faith met the unexpected attack of the camera bravely, head up, both Junior and Jim Lane ducked their heads, shielding their faces with their arms.

"Pardon me, Miss Lane," a reporter stepped forward. "I see you're bringing clothes and food for your sister. May I say that she will not have to eat prison fare?"

"Yes," Faith interrupted hastily. "And we really have nothing else to say, except that we know my sister is innocent, and that her family is with her in her trouble."

They were admitted immediately to the warden's office on the first floor. The warden was expecting them, greeted them with grave courtesy. "My name is 'Little, Mr. Lane—Jeff Little. Mr. Lane and Mr. Lanehouse have telephoned their permission for you people to see Mrs. Wiley. I'm sure you'll find her as comfortable as possible, under the circumstances. She's a powerful pretty, sweet little lady."

Faith beamed a swift prayer of thanksgiving that Cherry had so easily won the heart of the men into whose keeping she had been thrust.

They followed him down a long, dim corridor, pervaded with that odor which is peculiar to prisons. Faith shuddered and leaned heavily against Junior's arm.

A negro in faded khaki overalls operated the elevator which bore them to the fourth floor.

"There's a little room at the end of the hall here where common prisoners are permitted to see their folks, under guard," the warden told them, leading them down a corridor walled on one side by a continuous procession of rusty iron bars, reaching from floor to ceiling. Through the bars Faith saw women—white and colored, old and young, dressed in shapeless, faded prison garments. Back of the barred enclosure, shared by all the women in that ward, were open-front cells, each with two iron cot beds, made up with thin gray blankets, a built-in iron bench—nothing else—except a small barred window, set high in the gray-painted walls.

"Is my sister here?" Faith gasped, almost fainting with horror at the thought of pampered little Cherry in such a place.

"No, she has a cell to herself," Warden Little answered. "Most of these women are old offenders, in for thirty to sixty days. Mrs. Wiley hasn't been tried yet, so she has a room to herself."

Even in her horror and numbing grief Faith was grateful to him for his hesitancy to speak of Cherry's actual condition—the fact that she was jailed on suspicion of murder.

"You just wait here," the warden unlocked a door, admitting them to a pleasant little sitting room, with white curtains blowing at the windows and pots of flowers on wrought-iron stands.

SHORT SKIRTS NOT POPULAR WITH PORTUGUESE

Lisbon—(P)—Portugal frowns upon the short skirts. Women who attempt to adopt the "down to the knee" style have been subjected to popular manifestations.

Two young women of good family, wearing flowers and medals in the streets, for a charitable institution, wore short flimsy skirts which fluttered in the wind as they accosted the passers-by. But the boos of the market vendors, chiefly women, drove the girls from the street.

AGE LIMIT FOR MEDALS
Paris—(P)—Those literary or artistically inclined ladies who aspire to wear the little medal of the French order of public instruction, commonly known as the "Palme," will have to admit being 35 years or over before their claims can be examined. This decision was made by M. Herriot, minister of education, who found that the number of decorations at his disposal was far inadequate to the demands.

Hitherto the medal, replaced with street dress by a little strip of violet ribbon, has been rather freely distributed. Coming just under the Legion of honor in the hierarchy of the Republic, the "Palme Academique" mark of success has been highly coveted.

MOTORING "NECK MUFFS"
London—(P)—Women motorists who use open cars have adopted a "neck muf" for cold weather wear.

It is shaped like an ordinary muf, but less padded and lined, and is slipped over the head. It is then easily adjusted into position and it comes well round the neck and face. There are no fastenings and the muf can be taken off when the wearer goes into a restaurant or theatre.

NOTED FOR THEIR POISE
Saigon, French Indo-China—(P)—The tallest, slimmest and most stately Asiatic women observable by a traveler in the Far East, are to be found in this beautiful city of wide streets and semi-tropical verdure.

Dressed in simple, black, tight-fitting native costume with bodice covering the neck and shoulders, long sleeves and with skirt nearly to the ankles, these women are notable for the erectness of their carriage and their free and easy stride in walking, in striking contrast with the lack of grace in others of the Asiatic peoples.

The arms are carried straight from the shoulder and swung slightly free of the hips, and together with the graceful carriage of the head, gives an uncommon air of haughtiness and self-confidence.

A Charles II silver beer tankard has been sold in London for 545 pounds a record price.

There is a new way in women's hygiene that ends the insecurity of old-time "sanitary pads" and their unhappy days.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads. Deodorizes, thus ending all danger of offending.

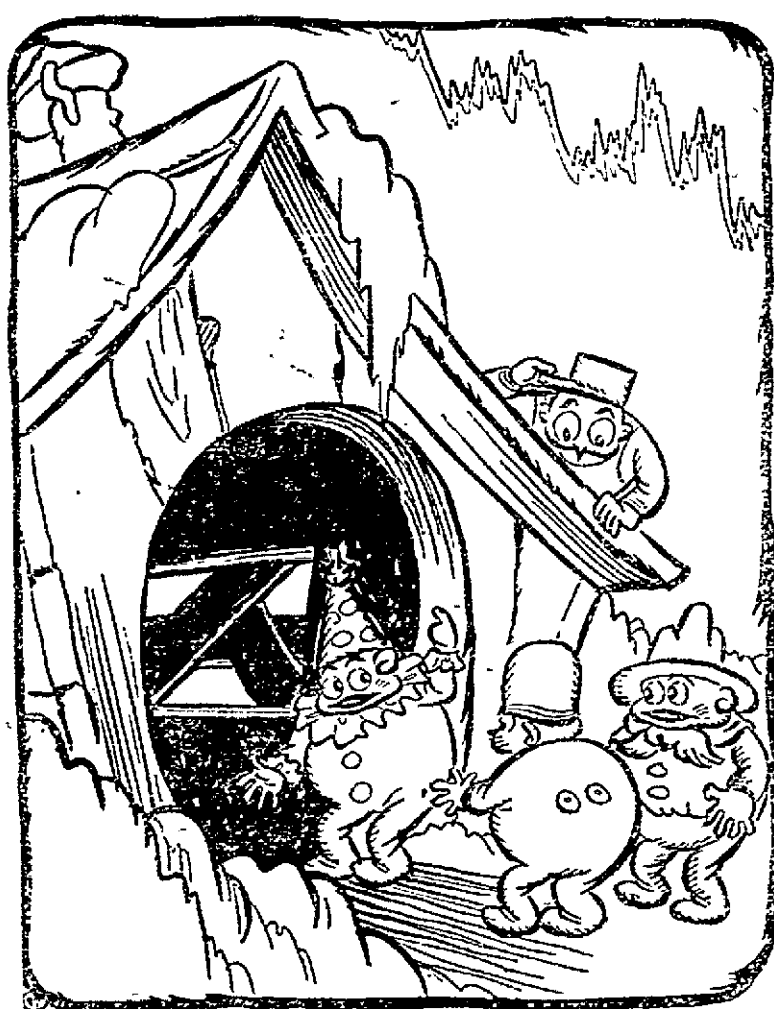

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex. Ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Proves old way a needless risk. 12 in a package. In fairness to yourself, try it.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

COURSE Clowmy knows just how it feels to play around in polar fields. He'd learned the worthy lesson when he landed in the stream. But now that he was safe and sound and sitting solid on the ground and other things more thrilling he, of course, began to dream.

"Oh, let's move on away from here," said he, "I very sadly fear that there is very little fun where Eskimos reside."

The other Tinies laughed in glee. Said Scouty, "Say it looks to me like you're afraid that you will have another nice seal ride."

"Why don't you Tinies go and slide along the yonder hills. It'd surely be some fun."

"Oh, thanks so much," someone replied. "We always simply love to slide. And in an instant everyone was on a merry run."

They reached a hilltop near at hand and Coppy shouted, "This is grand!" Then he gazed out in the open. "All I see is heaps of snow. It's slippery, too, so it can be C'mon you bunch. Just follow me. And as they sat down on the ice they shouted, 'Here we go!'"

A bulk of wood was surely there, and very thrilling, too, because the path that they were sliding on went round and round. They reached the bottom of the hill and each one took a snowy split and then they heard old Coppy shout, "Oh look what I have found!"

up north to find. Someone had built it, I suppose, but where they'd gone to goodness knows.

Perhaps the cold had chased them out, cause cold is not so kind.

FASHION HINTS

ENVELOPE BAGS

Envelope bags of calf or alligator are longer and narrower than last season, and usually have a gold monogram on the flap.

TWO-PIECE FROCKS

Street and business frocks often are of the two-piece variety, with a blouse of fine jersey and a finely pleated skirt of canton crepe or velveteen.

COAT STRINGS

A wrap-around coat should be equipped with inside strings to hold the underside across the front of the body, so that the outer side can button fastly.

FLESH CHIFFON

Dinner dresses of black lace and chiffon have touches of flesh chiffon at neck and sleeves. Sometimes pearl or rhinestone trimming is used on the pink.

HITTING A STRIDE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

MRS BROWN called out from the kitchen where she was mixing buckwheat cakes for breakfast. "Well who won?"

John's face looked as fallen as Pompeii as he strode and draped one leg over the corner of the table. "Not us," he said gloomily.

"What was wrong? Other team too strong for you?" asked his mother briskly beating up the batter.

"No! We were better than they were. We're just hoodooed and I'm the hoodoo. Everything I go in for goes pop, I'm a jinx, I tell you—the original little cross-eyed, black cat. I couldn't make good on it. Hockey team and now it's the same with basketball. I don't make good marks in school and I can't do-darn thing and you know it. I'm a complete, absolute, unutterable failure, so I am. Where's the adhesive tape?"

Mrs. Brown was inclined at first to say, "Oh, go on! Don't be silly! If you're going to talk that way, don't let me hear you."

But there was a look of such real tragedy on her son's face that she said nothing. She set the bowl back and followed. She had a book in her hand and was hunting for something. She said presently: "Listen, John! Here is the poem I have despised most of all my life. It's a bit from Moore's 'Lalla Rookh' and she reads:

"Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour, I've seen my fondest hopes decay; I never loved a tree or flower, But 'twas the first to fade away. I never nursed a dear gazelle, To glad me with its soft, black eye, But when it came to know me well, And loved me, it was sure to die!"

She closed the book quietly. "John, I always wanted to be a great singer. John jumped to his feet. "Mother, I'm a quitter," he cried. "You'll never catch me beefing again. I guess you mean I haven't just struck my stride yet. That's it, isn't it?"

"Yes," said his mother.

ALL STYLES OF BREECHES

Plus fours, as many English women prefer to call them, are being worn with all sorts of attire, full and lac-trimmed with evening dress and tweeds to match the tweed skirt in the daytime. Breeches also are worn for skating on indoor rinks, often without a covering skirt, and in that case they are made of material to match the wearer's blouse.

Knee-breeches of black satin, buckled at the knee with a diamond or paste buckle, are made for afternoon wear under short dresses.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

BY SISTER MARY
BRIAN—California grapes or bottled grape juice, whole wheat cooked cereal, thin cream, egg and tomato toast, crisp rye toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Disque of salmon, croutons, spinach, leaf with pickled beets, spice cake, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast beef with Yorkshire pudding, browned potatoes, Brussels sprouts in Hollandaise sauce, canned pear and cream cheese salad, banana sponge, Brazilian rolls, milk, coffee.

If Brussels sprouts are not procurable boiled dried turnips served in a cream sauce made purgative with lemon juice will provide an appetizing and attractive substitute. A judicious change in vegetables often makes it possible to practice economy without "unbalancing" the menu.

BISQUE OF SALMON
One large can of salmon, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cream, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Remove skin and bones from salmon and force through a coarse colander. Add 1 cup cold water and lemon juice and let stand while preparing bisque. Melt butter without bubbling. Stir in flour, salt, parsley, pepper and paprika and when perfectly blended add milk and cream. Bring to the boiling point stirring constantly. Add prepared fish.

PROPOSE TAX ON
CIGARETS TO HELP
FINANCE SCHOOLSState School Department
Asks New Distribution of Tax Load

Madison—(P)—When the legislature buckles into the problem of school taxation—one of the most aggravating issues of the session—it will face the department of public instruction's recommendations for raising an equalization fund from one of three sources, a state-wide property tax; the state income tax or a tax on cigarettes, cosmetics, etc.

The item regarded by the department of public instruction as the most important in the maze of school legislation is, according to bulletins, and communications to members of the legislature: "A state equalization fund so constituted as to insure that each county can furnish with this state aid adequate educational facilities for its children without an excessive local school tax rate."

Citing the necessity for this equalization, the department shows the districts having 33 percent of school assessed on the census roll, each district running a one room school. "The taxable wealth varies from $33,370 in the lowest to $875,000 in the highest," the report to the legislature says. "Each district has the same number to educate. Is it necessary to ask if the lowest can provide the opportunity that may easily be provided by the highest?"

WIDE DIFFERENCE
Giving next the list of the districts having 10 enrolled, the department shows valuations running from $54,300 in the lowest to $810,000 in the highest and says: "The first has a valuation of $3,337 per child enrolled. The highest has fifteen times the wealth per child, or $52,531."

"We have been told that this is a condition that exists only in central and northern Wisconsin. A study of the conditions show that it is true in every county of the state."

One of the education department's bulletins deals with the tax situation in these districts, saying that more than twenty have an assessed valuation of less than $500,000, while more than one hundred have a valuation of less than $1,000,000. In five schools, the real taxable wealth back of each pupil is between $4,000 and $6,000. In the same number of schools the taxable wealth is over $100,000 per pupil enrolled—five schools with twenty times the wealth of five others to provide school education for a pupil. Our high schools represent the entire range from extreme poverty to opulence. Yet they are all supported by public taxation for the same purpose.

The department's communication to the legislators continues:

"This situation has always been with us, but the doubling of high school enrollment during the past decade with the rising cost of everything from teachers' wages to fuel that goes into the running of a school has called for attention so emphatically as to lead to several attempts to break up districts and to provide an easy method for agricultural land to escape. It has been pointed out repeatedly that only a radical change in the state fiscal policy for high schools will remedy this acute situation. These high schools serve the entire state but at the present time, their support is almost entirely local. One's position as to whether something should be done to relieve this situation will depend on his view of education. If he believes that education is a local problem to be controlled and financed by the district, village, or city where the schools are located, then we may feel that the mere pittance of state aid which we now give should never have been provided. If he believes that education is a state-wide or even a nation-wide problem in which all have an interest, no matter where the children to be educated are located, then he will see the justice in providing financial relief from wider sources."

NEW FINANCE PLAN
"Our constitution indicates that the people who benefit it should bear it a matter of state concern and responsibility. The decisions of our courts indicate that they so interpret it."

"With this view in mind, it has been suggested that both common and high schools should be operated on funds furnished—30 per cent from a state fund, 30 per cent from a county fund, and 40 per cent to be provided by the local districts. The 30 per cent county fund has been objected to, and with justice, on the ground that the spread between the valuation of the counties is as wide as that between districts. Those who object to the county fund, propose a 50 per cent fund provided by the state and 50 per cent fund provided by the district."

"From what source shall the state's contribution be taken? Three sources have been suggested—a state-wide property tax; the state income tax; and so forth."

"The first has been the method of raising the 7 mill tax with the exception of one year during Governor Peck's administration when it was offset by the income tax or other funds in the state treasury. Over 90 per cent of the cost of elementary and high school education is now provided by such taxes. This method would leave this still true while spreading it more evenly in proportion to valuation. It would not, however, provide the relief in farm land taxes that would be provided by either of the other methods."

TAX ON CIGARETS
"If the second suggestion were used, it would be necessary for the state to take a larger portion of the income tax. It is now divided—40 per cent to the state; ten per cent to the county and 50 per cent to the town, village, or city where collected. There has been assessed this year for collection during the coming winter about $12,300,000 in personal and corporation income taxes. Of this, Milwaukee pays over 47 per cent, eight counties pay about 75 per cent; most of the rest pay a fraction of one per cent. When considering the fairness or the wisdom of taking the state's share from this source, the question of the payee is of course, is it the ultimate consumer and where is he located?"

"Would it be fairer or wiser to obtain the money from a tax—such as suggested by the Farm Bureau and others, namely, that on cigarettes, cosmetics, and so forth? Iowa is raising more than two million dollars by means of a cigarette tax. This indicates, without doubt, that the money should be raised from this source, if it is thought advisable to do so."

"What source is taken, it is certain that relief must be provided or common school opportunity will be weakened and high school opportunity will be denied in some localities to our Wisconsin boys and girls."

MEATING PRAISES
P. T. A. MEETINGSCounty Superintendent Holds
That Organizations Encourage Pupils

Parent-Teachers associations are important factors in promoting interest in schools among parents, in the opinion of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. "The one stumbling block to school improvement in the past has been the seeming indifference of the people of the school district," he said. "With plenty to do themselves, they did not find time to show an interest in the work of the school."

"To overcome this, we promoted the organization of parent teacher associations or community clubs. Seventy-five such associations were operating in the county last year. Some of them majored in amusement, others took a serious interest in the activities of the schools. All had occasion to observe their own school at work in different classes during the year, and I feel that they learned at first hand many of the newer teaching methods as well as the kind of work that their young people were doing in reading, arithmetic, geography, and history."

The fact that school methods have changed since parents were students has been brought home, and parents consequently have been able to give help to pupils at home much more effectively where such help was needed, he pointed out.

The associations have done the greatest good in showing children that the people of the district are interested in what the school is doing, he believes.

NEW RURAL SCHOOLS
BUILT LAST SUMMER
A number of new rural school houses were built and repairs completed on old buildings last year, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. New structures were erected in district 1, Deer Creek; district 6, Grand Chute; district 5, Ellington; district 10, Grand Chute; and district 5, Maple Creek.

Combined Locks has found it necessary to double the size of its school. Remodeling was completed in districts 1, 4 and 5, Black Creek; district 5, Bovina; joint district 6, Center; district 1, Ellington; joint district 5, Freedom; district 6, Kaukauna; and district 3, Maple Creek.

Classes in district 5, Maple Creek were moved into the new building after Christmas. Previous to that time students met in the town hall. This is the newest district to the county rural school system, it having been added last year.

What source is taken, it is certain that relief must be provided or common school opportunity will be weakened and high school opportunity will be denied in some localities to our Wisconsin boys and girls."

FREE LUNCH COUNTER
RETURNS—FOR BIRDS

The free lunch counter has returned to Appleton—but only for hungry birds and not for mere man. Birds which neglect to fly to the sunny southland with the first signs of cold weather need not starve in this city or depend on the few kind mortals who scatter bread crumbs on top of the snows. All they need to do to keep from starving is to camp near the feed mill and warehouses of the Liehen Grain Co. on W. College-ave, observers say.

The pilgrimage of birds to the vicinity of the grain company starts as soon as the snow covers the ground. Dozens of chirping sparrows and other birds fill the bare branches of trees around the feed mill to overflowing daily, as well as covering portions of the nearby buildings. Now and then the birds swoop down into the yard to collect a few mouthfuls, return to their lofty perches on the roofs and buildings and awaiting another opportunity to "pick off" a stray piece of fallen feed.

Teach the Children the Rules of Etiquette

Good manners are an asset—bad manners a life-long handicap. This is one reason why children should have the advantage of early training in the practice of the little courtesies that rub off so many of the sharp edges of daily living.

The easiest and best way to teach the children manners is to set a good example yourself. May be you had better brush up on a few points.

The new etiquette booklet which our Washington Bureau offers is just what you need for this purpose. Send in your name and address, together with six cents in stamps, and a copy will be forwarded promptly.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith SIX CENTS in stamps or coin for a copy of the booklet "MODERN MANNERS."

QUESTIONS POWER OF HIGH COURT ON VERDICTS OF JURY

Attorney Smith Files Motion for Rehearing in Damage Case.

The constitutionality of the law which confers upon the Supreme court the power to set aside a jury verdict and order judgment contrary thereto, is questioned in a motion for rehearing filed this week in Supreme Court, by E. C. Smith, attorney for the defendant, in the case of Peter Peterson against Robert Kuehne.

The special verdict of a jury which heard the case in municipal court before the late Judge A. M. Spencer, awarding the plaintiff damages aggregating $1,844.33, recently was reversed by the Supreme court.

The case involved an automobile accident in July, 1923. It was tried June 17, 1925. Before judgment was entered on the verdict, Judge Spencer, after hearing the case, ordered judgment on the verdict.

The case presented some unusual features in that it was claimed by the defense that a third party had taken the automobile of the defendant, Kuehne, while he was in use of his agent, Henry Ziesemer, without the knowledge or consent of Ziesemer. The defense also contended that this third person used the car for personal reasons, and that Kuehne therefore could not be held liable for injuries resulting to the plaintiff under the circumstances.

In filing his motion for a rehearing, Attorney Smith recognizes that the Supreme court acted within the powers conferred upon it by statute, but contends that the law giving the Supreme court power to set aside a jury verdict is unconstitutional and a violation of Section 5 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, and of Article 7 of the United States constitution, both of which constitutional provisions preserve to every litigant the right of a trial by jury.

In view of the fact that United States constitutional provision are involved, Attorney Smith has indicated he will appeal the case to the United States Supreme court if the Wisconsin Supreme court refuses to reconsider its decision.

The alleged injustice of the laws involved in this case and particularly the special verdict law has been the subject of much discussion in recent years, and in 1923 the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor unsuccessfully attempted to have the legislature abolish the special verdict law.

STAGE AND SCREEN

PARLOR BEDROOM AND BATH REPEATED TONIGHT

If there was ever a play that could keep an audience in a constant state of up-rour thru-out a period of two hours, Parlor Bedroom and Bath is such a play. The audience at Fischer's Appleton last night gave forth outbursts of laughter that were exceeded in volume only by their continuousness. The audience never seemed to stop in its screams of laughter.

Parlor Bedroom and Bath deals with the plaudits of a married man, and the troubles that ensue when he attempts to live up to a reputation of a lady-killer. Reginald Beresford happens to be one of those simple men whose romantic activities ceased when he enters the bonds of matrimony. His wife, on the other hand, was a woman whose pride in the possession of her husband lay principally in the fact that her husband was a much-sought man by other women. To her his chief virtue consisted in his attractiveness to other women. It was a strange complex, Reggie's wife had and it made it necessary for him to live an "appalling double life." It bored him tremendously, but it had to be done. It finally led him into a lot of trouble, and it is about this trouble that the comedy of Parlor Bedroom and Bath revolves.

Miss Myrtle Ross and Mr. Herbert Duffy furnish the principal comedy roles in Parlor Bedroom and Bath.

RENEE ADOREE REAL FRENCH REFUGEE

Renée Adoree, the French actress who will be seen as Melisande the farm girl in "The Big Parade" at the Saxe Neenah theatre, Feb. 4-5, afterwards and night, plays her part as the minor born, so to speak, for Miss Adoree as the refugee heroine in the picture is re-enacting her own thrilling experience when she was driven out of Belgium by the German hordes, escaping from Brussels in a freight train under cover of darkness. She fled to London and thence came to America where her Continental work as equestrienne, player and dancer paved the way to her career in the movies. She was born under canvas in a circus lot in Lille and knows every part of rural France thoroughly.

COLORFUL SCENES OF OLD MOROCCO IN "WINDING STAIR"

Colorful scenes of far-off Morocco, exotic romance and superb acting by an all-star cast—these are the ingredients of the William Fox picture, "The Winding Stair," at the New Bijou today and Saturday.

Edmund Lowe and Alma Rubens, who have been seen before in Fox pictures, head the players of this filmization of the popular A. E. W. Mason novel. John Griffith Wray directed the picture.

The story deals with the efforts of a young Englishman to regain the lost honor of his family name by serving in the French Foreign Legion in Northern Africa. But temptation comes to upset his plans—temptation wherein his love for a beautiful American girl dancer struggles for mastery over his duty to his regiment and his adopted country.

It is the dramatic story of that conflict that forms the basis of this picture, and Miss Rubens and Mr. Lowe have never done finer work than in SHARP DECREASE IN FAILURES IN H. S.

Teachers Work Out Method to Reduce Number of Students Failing to "Make Grade"

Failures were decreased one-half from June, 1926 to Jan. 1927, at Appleton high school, according to a report of students who failed to pass in their work, made by home room teachers of the school. At the close of first semester this year, only 3.3 per cent of the grades recorded were below passing, whereas 6 1/2 per cent were failures at the close of the second semester in 1926. The average enrollment of the school was 812 during the past semester and an average of four studies was carried by each student. There were 3,248 subject grades recorded by teachers.

At the close of the first six weeks of the term 130 students failed in 180 subjects. Some of these pupils, particularly sophomores, did not pass in two or three subjects. Of this group, two failures were seniors, 29 were juniors and 108 were sophomores.

A decrease of 20 failing students and 29 subjects was shown at the end of the second six weeks term. There were 110 students failures and 151 subjects failures. The senior group was larger here, with 11 students not passing. Twenty-seven juniors and 72 sophomores failed.

Only 89 students did not pass in the final semester grades. Three seniors, 12 juniors and 74 sophomores fell below in 109 subjects.

Five of this group failed in three subjects, ten in two studies, and seventy-four in one. A special effort has been made this year to reduce failures, H. H. Hebble, principal said. At the first professional meeting of teachers in October, Marks and the Grading System and their effect on failures was discussed under the leadership of Miss Ethel Carter, Final Examinations this production. In the excellent supporting cast are Mahlon Hamilton, Warner Oland, Frank Leigh, Chester Conklin, Captain Calvert, Emily Fitzroy and June Thomas.

"My face was affected with pimples and blackheads which later developed into blotches and these itched something terrible. The pimples were a rather large and red. They itched and had to be scratched which, of course, caused eruptions and disfigurement."

"I tried different ointments but all were of no avail. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a short time noticed a great change. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Angela Gall, 2012 W. 68th St., Chicago, Ill.

White street lines to guide motorists cost London hundreds of pounds monthly. Smoke, fog and rain cause the paint to wear rapidly.

and Failures was the subject at the January meeting led by Miss Blanche McCarthy.

Mr. Hebble believed the renewed interest in failures, their cause, cure and prevention was largely responsible for the decrease in number. A longer period of supervised study also has contributed, he stated.

BOOSTER CLUB OF H. S. PICKS PRO-TEM OFFICERS

Temporary officers of the Booster club of Appleton high school were elected at a meeting of the organization Wednesday afternoon. Carol Richmond was chosen president; Thomas Butler, sergeant at arms; Roland Parker, secretary. Hebble, principal, is sponsor of the group, and Harry Cameron, gang boss.

The president appointed a committee to draft a constitution for the club and to present its plans at the meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 2. Mr. Parker was named chairman and others who will act are Everett Bethe and Orville Arent. Two new members, Gilbert Schumann and Daryl Schade, were elected to the organization.

The membership now includes beside the officers, committee men and new members: Roy Reinke, Rudolph Haase, Orville Bauvain, Roger Clarke, Edward Doine, George Haag. The club will work at the Pond du Lac and Appleton game Friday evening and the Saukauna and Appleton meet Tuesday.

FORMER CHAMPIONS IN COMEBACK FIGHT AT MADISON GARDEN

Berlenbach, McTigue Clash in Battle to Regain Old Pres- tige

New York—(P)—Two former light heavyweight champions will clash Friday night at Madison Square Garden, each seeking to clinch an impressive comeback at the expense of the foe. The other aiming at the first hurdle in his path to the golden-peaked summit of the heavyweight division.

It is more than a year and a half since Mike McTigue yielded the 175-pound mantle to Paul Poirier. Later, the dethroned champion went down to a knockout defeat at the hands of Jack Delaney who subsequently wrested the sceptre from Berlenbach. Since those defeats McTigue has fought his way back to favor with a decisive victory over John my Riskie of Cleveland and three successive knockouts against King Solomon, South American heavyweight, Billy Vandebeck, and Soldier King.

Berlenbach rules a slight favorite over Mike in their 12-round match, Friday night, but McTigue has been given generous backing. Critics believe Berlenbach has improved his chances by a six-months furlong from the resined battlefield.

The going will call them from their corners at 10 o'clock.

Johnston Post Plans For State Maple Meet

Appointment of Walter Schultz as secretary of the tourney, completed the preliminary plans for the first annual bowling tournament of the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion, which will be held in Appleton from March 12 to April 10. The meet will be sponsored by Oney Johnston post of which C. O. Baetz is athletic officer and will be the first state Legion meet every held.

Entries must be in Mr. Schultz's hands by March 5, the final date. His address is 1008 N. Oneida-st.

The month of bowling gives over one of the 375 state posts chances to get into the meet and chances of good weekend dates. The entry fees will be $1 net per person for each event. Cash prizes totaling $2000 will be given for singles, doubles, five-man events and for all-events scores. Cups and medals also will be awarded for highest honors and 50 per cent of the $2000 will be used for good fellowship prizes.

Games will be rolled on the Elk alleys. Good fellowship prizes will be awarded in a novel manner. Rather than drawing names of all contestants, the members of the athletic committee, football coach and alumnus.

Chief among the subjects proposed for their joint consideration was that of recruiting of prep school athletes with the coaches offering as solution a code of ethics labeling legal and illegal means of attracting material for Big Ten teams.

The athletic chiefs admitted that it is entirely proper to give banquets to prospective athletes, to "rush" at interscholastic meets, for coaches to make talks at high school occasions, and for athletic directors to inquire about men graduating from prep schools. They proposed a brand of legality, however, upon granting of scholarships by any than the regular faculty agencies, giving or advancing of money, coaches visits to high school meets for recruiting purposes and similar practices.

When the conference was originally called by Major John L. Griffin, Big Ten athletic commissioner its designated chief concern was to unravel the tangle of Big Ten gridiron schedules, but the athletic directors got together last week and worked out a four-year schedule needing only formal approval of the conference.

PREP RECRUITING BIG TEN CONCERN

Conference Heads Attempt to Set Rules on "Rushing" Athletes

Chicago—(P)—An effort to thresh out the Western Conference's athletic problems to the satisfaction of every body concerned brought spokesmen for Big Ten faculties, coaches and alumni here Friday for conference.

The athletic directors took the lead in pointing out knotty matters, but the official delegation for each school also included the president, the chairman of the board of regents, faculty members of the athletic committee, football coach and alumnus.

characteristics will be placed in the draw while poor sportsmanship will bar even the low bowlers.

In spite of the fact that the meet has had little publicity, interest already is high. Inquiries have come to Appleton from 35 state posts in the last week or ten days. It is planned to have at least 400 teams in the meet. Appleton will have 50, including booster squads, and all cities of the valley are expected to send large entry lists, none smaller than three. Green Bay already has 10 teams formed while Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Oshkosh are expected to have at least as many. Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Neenah, Menasha, De Pere, Wrightstown, New London, Waupaca, Clintonville, Seymour and other nearby smaller cities are expected to make the three-team grade.

Entry blanks were mailed to every state post this week. Committees of Oney Johnston post appointed for the tourney are:

Booster teams—Jack Stevens, Joseph Marston, R. A. Peterson, Fred—Carl Tennie, James Balliet, Alleges—Elmer Schabo. Other committees may be appointed later.

Will Make Good
George Stallings, manager of the Rochester International, says Shortstop Rothrock, who played with his club last year and goes up with the Boston Red Sox, is a finished big leaguer and will make good. Tried out last fall, he hit .294 in 15 games.

Praise for Sheely
While he rates Sisler and Chase as superior to First Baseman Sheely of Chicago, all-around ability considered, Eddie Collins says neither could handle a thrown ball as proficiently as does Sheely, who pulls down the high ones or scoops up the low ones with equal ease.

YOUTHFUL MUSHER CAPTURES DERBY

Emil St. Goddard Finishes Pas Race Half-hour Quicker Than Rivals

The Pas, Man.—(P)—Driving a race unequalled for speed for such an event, Emil St. Goddard, 20 years old, Thursday won the 120-mile The Pas Dog Derby.

He took first place in each of the three forty-mile laps for a total official time of 11 hours 27 minutes and 52 seconds. This was nearly half an hour faster than the time of the second place winner, Emil Brydges, another 20-year old musher.

St. Goddard surprised the spectators with his speed and endurance and with the handling of his seven greyhound huskies. Emil's brother, Leo, was third, and Shorty Russick fourth.

It was Emil St. Goddard's third win of the derby.

GROVE FINDS SHEELY IS HARD TO BAFFLE

Philadelphia—"Lefty" Grove of the Athletics, who led the American League in strikeouts last season, says Earl Sheely, the elongated first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, was the toughest man in the American League for him to pitch to.

"I just couldn't get my fast ball by Sheely," says Grove. "He seemed to choke up on his bat and snap at my speed rather than taking a health swing. He had the faculty of dropping the ball just out of reach of the fielders."

There are many other American League pitchers who will subscribe to what Grove has to say about Sheely.

SHORT SPORT

Hard Luck Golfer
Like Mike Brady, Al Watrous, the Grand Rapids (Mich.) pro golfer, is the picture of hard luck. "Something seems to happen every time he has a chance to win some big event, killing his chances."

Draws Big Gallery
While Jack Hutchison no longer boasts any golf hits worth mentioning, he is still one of the game's most colorful players and always draws a big gallery.

Unusual Golf Style
Leo Diegel, one of golf's best players, has a decidedly unorthodox style of play and for that reason has never made much success as an instructor. His style is original, impossible to copy.

Will Make Good
George Stallings, manager of the Rochester International, says Shortstop Rothrock, who played with his club last year and goes up with the Boston Red Sox, is a finished big leaguer and will make good. Tried out last fall, he hit .294 in 15 games.

HOLD HIGH SCHOOL ICE CARNIVAL ON SATURDAY

Saturday will be a big day for skaters of Appleton high school, both boys and girls, for on that day the first annual interclass skate meet will be held. Saturday morning two of the classes will battle in a hockey match and the other class will meet the winner for the 1927 school title later in the week. In the afternoon the races will be held.

Both boys and girls races are on the program with both counting toward interclass honors. The sophs seem to be the strongest with the seniors and juniors close seconds. All events are to be held at Jones park.

London—Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, defeated Bartozolo, Italian champion, on a foul (7.) Tommy Milligan, middleweight champion of Europe, defeated Ted Moore (10.)

Madison—(P)—Blindness caused by "ophthalmic neonatorum," an inflamed condition of a baby's eyes, has been made negligible at the cost of two cents per child, according to the state board of health.

The decrease in blindness due to the disease is shown by statistics compiled by the department, which places the number of cases reported in the department during 1926 at 12. In 1925 the number was 24.

"Since 1922 the law has required prophylaxis of the eyes of infants at birth with silver nitrate," a report from the department stated. "The state board declares this causes no harm but effectually prevents infection. Since that year the board has annually supplied physicians, nurses and hospitals, free, with wax ampules of silver nitrate. The state outlay for this purchase formerly was $1,500 per year. The board now provides a year ago for manufacturing the preparation in the state laboratory here, at a saving of about 40 per cent.

"Statistics collected from institutions for the care of the blind in 26 states show that from 25 to 30 per cent of these cases resulted from ophthalmic neonatorum. So far as can be learned, no cases entering the state school at Janesville are longer due to this cause.

"The statute imposes a fine of $100 for failure to administer or have administered the prophylaxis. All cases of ophthalmic neonatorum must be reported within six hours to the health officer.

"Blindness from this source rare none of which resulted in blindness, occurs if the disease is properly treated from the beginning," says the board. "Blindness at any time of prophylaxis of the eyes of infants at birth with silver nitrate," a report from the department stated. "The state board declares this causes no harm but effectually prevents infection. Since that year the board has annually supplied physicians, nurses and hospitals, free, with wax ampules of silver nitrate. The state outlay for this purchase formerly was $1,500 per year. The board now provides a year ago for manufacturing the preparation in the state laboratory here, at a saving of about 40 per cent.

"Statistics collected from institutions for the care of the blind in 26 states show that from 25 to 30 per cent of these cases resulted from ophthalmic neonatorum. So far as can be learned, no cases entering the state school at Janesville are longer due to this cause.

"The statute imposes a fine of $100 for failure to administer or have administered the prophylaxis. All cases of ophthalmic neonatorum must be reported within six hours to the health officer.

STATE HAS STOPPED INFANT BLINDNESS

Health Department Requires Treatment of Eyes Immediately After Birth

Madison—(P)—Blindness caused by "ophthalmic neonatorum," an inflamed condition of a baby's eyes, has been made negligible at the cost of two cents per child, according to the state board of health.

The decrease in blindness due to the disease is shown by statistics compiled by the department, which places the number of cases reported in the department during 1926 at 12. In 1925 the number was 24.

"Since 1922 the law has required prophylaxis of the eyes of infants at birth with silver nitrate," a report from the department stated. JUDGE HOLDS BRACELET FOR REJECTED MAN

A gold bracelet, the cause of a disagreement between a young man and a young woman about six months ago, is being held for the former by Judge Theodore Berg. The owner may have same by calling for it in the municipal judge's office.

During the course of a courtship early last year, this young man, overcome by a romantic spirit one day, purchased the bracelet for the girl. She valued the gift highly, but even his generosity could not win her, and when he discovered this fact he demanded the bracelet.

Her love for jewelry was highly developed, it appeared, for she refused to return the gift—until the couple appeared in the judge's chamber. Here she was made to see the folly of her decision, and she agreed to the demand of her former lover.

She didn't have the bracelet with her that day, but she brought it to the judge a little later. However, despite his apparent desire to recover ownership of the gift, the young man thus far has failed to call for it.

The judge would like to return the bracelet to the owner, and he hopes he will not have to keep it much longer. He might even have mailed it to the young man, but he doesn't know the later's address.

More and more people in our city insist on ENZO JEL for it is decidedly better.

WILSON PUPILS MAKE RECORD FOR ATTENDANCE

An average attendance record of 97.6 per cent was made by pupils of the Wilson Junior high school during the first semester, according to a report by Dr. M. H. Small, principal. An almost perfect record was maintained during the first and second six weeks periods, but in the third term sickness increased materially. Many families were quarantined for measles and whooping cough and others were ill with non-contagious diseases. The average attendance in the third six weeks was 96.4 per cent.

The record was slightly better than last year, the principal continued, but only by a fraction of a per cent. The eighth grade classes had the highest average attendance grade of 97.5 per cent. Seventh and ninth grades differed only slightly; the ninth was 96.7 plus and the seventh, 96.8 minus. The highest and lowest scores were made by a seventh grade class, 98.4 per cent and 94.6 per cent.

COMMITTEE TO HEAD TEACHERS' BUREAU

The Teachers Placement Bureau at Lawrence college will be managed by a committee on placements headed by Dr. Richard B. Thiel of the education department, instead of by the alumni association secretary as has been done the past few years, according to an announcement made at the college. All records of Lawrence graduates who expect to teach will be kept by the committee and will be available to superintendents, principals, and other school officials when they are desired. This service will be free of charge for the teacher or the school, the announcement stated.

Six department heads will serve with Dr. Thiel on the committee: Prof. A. A. Trever, history; Prof. J. C. Lymer, mathematics; Prof. L. C. Baker, modern languages; Prof. W. L. Crow, political science; Prof. F. C. Clippinger, composition; and Prof. J. L. Mursell, education.

WHEN MAIDENS MUSE!

Revelations

I've known of guys so loud with kale
They made the bright lights dim;
I've known 'em cautious, careful,
cheap—
I've known 'em downright stung.

The cheapest guy I ever knew
(I won't soon be forgetting)
Sent me a bill for three cigars
He broke while we were putting!

The Fatal Question

He said, "Pray darling, do not think
That I'm a base-born churl;
I want to ask you something that
I'd ask no other girl!"

My heart went pitty-pitty-pat!
The moment, then, had come
When I must yield or say him nay!
My trembling lips were dumb.

There was a warm and tender pain
A-burning in his glance.
And then the sap asked me to sew
A button on his pants!

WANT LEGISLATORS TO HAVE POWER TO RAISE OWN SALARIES

Tax Probe Committeeman Will Seek Constitutional Amendment

Madison—(P)—Besides the unclean legislative system joint resolution and the proposal to memorialize congress to speed approval of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river waterways project, several minor bills were introduced in the assembly Wednesday.

The only other measure of similar caliber was one by Assemblyman Zink of Beaver Dam appropriating $1,000 to the state American Legion for its annual encampment.

The bill of Assemblyman Tews, previously reviewed, relating to fishing and fish nets, and the fish wholesaler's license law, were introduced by the Milwaukee socialists. There were three.

Edwards was author of a bill regarding compensation for the clerk of the western division municipal court of Waukesha county.

A bill by Assemblyman Hinkley related to revocation of licenses of patent medicine dealers.

WOULD RAISE PAY

Thomas Duncan, member of the legislative interim committee put in a joint resolution that would enable the legislature to increase the salaries paid to assemblymen and senators. It provides for a constitutional amendment striking out the section of the document that sets the salaries.

Assemblyman Davies put in a bill relating to salaries of the judge, reporter and clerk of the eastern district of Waukesha-co.

Other bills and their authors were: Stevenson: Prohibiting non-resident fishing in the bays and bayous tributary to the Mississippi river in Pierce-co.

Schultz: Conferring additional jurisdiction on the first municipal court of Rusk-co.

Davis: Relating to the opening and recording of ballots of absent voters.

Huber: Removing the section of the law setting the size of law publishing supplements of state newspapers.

Poleswysinski: Removal of the compulsion to attend vocational or part time schools until 18 years of age, and setting the compulsory limit at 16 years.

Hinkley: Changing the "shall" in the clause relating to revocation of doctors license to "may" so that the deciding body does not have to revoke the license.

A dessert miracle for all ages—EX-ZO JEL.

Browning Mad When Peaches Tries To Avoid Publicity

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN

New York—"I will never wear my diamond engagement ring again—until I am sure nobody will take it away from me," said Peaches Browning at Carmel, N. Y. when she made her entrance on the courtroom stage.

This much-headlined youngster appeared at the opening of Edward V. Browning's suit for separation wearing the diamond-studded wedding band but not the blazing solitaire which she had received last spring in the palm days of romance.

Was it sweet and sentiment or the outraged pride of a sensitive woman that made her remove it?

Not much. It was a characteristic fear that someone might lift it from her. Who that someone was she only hinted. Jewels came hard in Peaches' early life, and what she gets she keeps. The diamond is hidden away in her safety deposit vault.

But the rest of Peaches' trophies less liable to theft, were represented in evidence. French blue gown mauve feathered hat and sable coat, plus a few tears discreetly shed, made up her costume.

The sables were significant. Sables for sale, Daddy Browning might have offered, and Peaches was the bidder. She paid in return her own buxom person, a head of curly yellow hair, two baby blue eyes and a chin scarred by the mysterious acid burns.

But with the sables she got Daddy Browning—a bonus she did not want.

"I am through with marriage, but not through with men," she said after adjournment of court. A woman can't be happy without love. She wants somebody's devotion. I want a home. I want peace.

But the home that harbors Peaches will be manless except for occasional visits from devoted swains.

While Daddy Browning watched her furtively with brown, bird-like eyes from across the table, Peaches dabbed at her blue eyes and told women reporters how she felt about it all.

"They call me a gold digger," she said brokenly, "but I'm not after money. I only want to get away to the end of the earth and be happy again. If marriage is like this, I'm off it."

"Perhaps next time it will be better luck. If it is not a May and December affair," suggested someone. Peaches' blue eyes blazed.

"Why not May and December?" she said. "I don't see anything wrong with that."

"What was wrong then?" asked a bystander.

"It was Daddy," she cried.

There is positively no chance at reconciliation, both sides agree Peaches is angry. Daddy Browning is not, but he is deeply hurt because Peaches is trying to spoil his show. Her lawyers played a surprise card when they asked for a private hearing of the case.

Peaches has had enough publicity and wants to call quits.

Daddy brought into court his big black suitcase full of evidence with his initials in huge letters. In his philosophy the scarlet letter is better than none at all in the newspaper. He would forgive Peaches for deserting him, for exposure of their intimate life, or brutal revivification, even her mother. But for trying to shut off the spotlight from his benignly posed head, he will never forgive her. This was the last blow.

Night Coughs Stopped in 15 Minutes

Almost always coughing is caused by an irritated and inflamed throat or bronchial tubes, which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered called Thoxine goes direct to the cause, relieves the inflamed membranes and stops the cough almost instantly, one swallow does the work and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or harmful drugs. Once used you will never be without it. Pleasant taste. Safe for children. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Voigt's and all good drug stores.

NOTED SOPRANO TO SING HERE IN MAY

Miss Marjorie Maxwell Will Appear During Spring Music Festival

Miss Marjorie Maxwell, prima donna soprano with the Chicago Civic Opera Co., will sing in Appleton with the Chicago Operatic trio the night of May 17, the second day of the Appleton Spring Music festival. Despite her youth, Miss Maxwell has attained a place among the best musical artists of the country. She has appeared for several seasons with the Ravinia Park Opera Co. of Chicago during the summer months.

The soprano will sing several well-known operatic numbers at the opening of the festival. The trio will be assisted by Schola Cantorum of Lawrence college directed by Dean Carl J. Waterman of the Lawrence conservatory of music. The great choruses of the operas will be sung by the students.

Miss Maxwell is described as a wholehearted American girl with a voice of surpassing beauty, a pure lyric soprano. It is colorful throughout its entire range and is marked by evenness of tone. She is one of the most popular sopranos now available. Her artistic equipment is equal to the demands of varied fields of song having gained distinction in operatic, concert and oratorio singing.

Ricardo Martin, tenor, and Virgilio Lazari, bass, are the other members of the operatic trio.
